

Civic Group Turns Heat on Tucker

James Tucker

Daly City Councilman James Tucker is the target of scathing criticism in the Original Daly City Protective Association's November newsletter.

The publication charges that Tucker, who was voted into office last March, has turned his back on ODCPA, despite vigorous campaigning by ODCPA on his behalf.

The newsletter notes that Tucker "has seemed to oppose everything our people wanted" and claims he has failed to keep his campaign promises.

Specifically, it charges: On Taxes: "When the legitimate need of the police and fire chiefs for cars was brought up, he insisted that the city manager also have one, and got his motion passed. The city manager lives in Burlingame, makes about $42,000 per year, has property at Lake Tahoe. This is streamlining and economizing..."

On the city's housing rehabilitation program: "He never said a word to aid ODCPA in the rehab battle."

On garbage rates: "He proposed that garbage rates be increased immediately, even when staff suggested a delay. He put through the increase BEFORE asking for an advisory committee, which is not likely to pass anyway."

"There's always another election," the newsletter adds.

Tucker vehemently denies the charges, but concedes that ODCPA helped him win the election.

He said, "There's no doubt that they did a considerable amount of work on my behalf, but others also worked for me in other parts of the community. My votes came from all over the city."

Tucker remarked, "As far as satisfying people that back you, you serve not only the people that voted for you but also those who didn't. I feel I have done this in the short time I have been on the council."

The councilman said he believes just two individuals are responsible for the comments in the newsletter — Conrad Pavellas and Ernie Pezzola.

He said he was particularly upset by the implied charge that City Manager David Rowe takes his city car to Lake Tahoe. Tucker said Rowe has never done so. Rowe concurred.

Tucker said, "We save money by giving David Rowe a car. If we gave him 18 cents per mile for the miles he puts in for the city, going to functions all over the county, we would lose our shirts on his expenses."

Addressing ODCPA's comments on rehabilitation, Tucker said, "I don't know if it's a matter of having to aid ODCPA or aid the people who have applied for rehab loans."

Noting that a recent meeting on the subject convinced him that some of the problems are being ironed out, he added that he thinks the federal government is at fault for stalling on the housing rehabilitation loans it has promised.

Tucker explained that he pushed for a citizens' advisory committee to study all proposed rate increases by city franchises, but his proposal was voted down by the council 3-2.

Prior to the next increase, whether for garbage or cablevision or anything, I will ask again that the City Council appoint a fact-finding committee," Tucker said.

Pavellas, Pezzola Blast Delays in D.C. Rehabilitation Loans

Frustration at the continuing delay in long-promised housing rehabilitation loans was vented again Monday night in Daly City at a City Council study session.

Conrad Pavellas and Ernest Pezzola erupted in anger when the city's rehabilitation loan officer, Barbara Hill, said the Rehabilitation Advisory Committee wanted the council to consider setting aside $100,000 of fourth-year Housing and Community Development Act funds to leverage loans.

"The committee feels this is the best way to get the most impact out of the small amount of dollars that we have," she explained.

Pavellas asked what happened to emergency loans promised early this year to a number of residents whose homes need immediate repair.

Ms. Hill replied, "The money's still there. Once a loan is committed, it won't be taken away."

She said the city has to reprocess all of the emergency loans, since the government requires that all loan papers not be older than 30 to 60 days. The city still does not know how much money it will get for rehabilitation from the government.

Pezzola objected that a consultant hired by the city, Ward Connerly, is being paid again to do the same paperwork.

Ms. Hill explained that the consultant expected the loans to be processed when he drew up the original papers.

"He had these packages ready to submit — about 20 to 30 — and when he submitted them to HUD (the Department of Housing and Urban Development), he was told there was no money," she said.

Councilman James Tucker remarked, "With all due respect, I would say it's up to Mr. Connerly to redo those loans at no cost."

Ms. Hill replied, "I would suggest that his fee is going to be considerably less than you think. He may charge you for only an hour extra of his time on each loan."

Throughout the discussion, Harold Calder of the Rehabilitation Advisory Committee kept asking the council to consider alternative methods of providing rehabilitation loans and to draw up a realistic timetable for the program.

Councilman Anthony Giammona objected, "How can we set any goals when we don't know how much money we are going to get?"

Calder remarked, "Proposition 13 came and you still put together a budget."

Giammona said that was a different situation.

The topic is scheduled for further discussion on the council's Nov. 13 agenda.

600 Could Be Unemployed

Massive Cutback in CETA Funding for SM County

Federal funding from the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) will be chopped 40 to 45 percent in San Mateo County, officials announced today.

The massive cutback in the 4-year-old program will effectively swell county unemployment rolls by upwards of 600 persons, according to George Riley, director of the county department of community services.

Riley said the 1,200 persons now employed in government and private industry under four CETA programs will be reduced over the next two months to about 600.

"This isn't a large number when this county has about 20,000 unemployed workers, but it still has an impact," said Riley.

John Wallace, chief of operations of the Manpower Office — a county agency charged with dispersing the federal unemployment funds — also announced a one-month moratorium on all hiring in the private and public sectors.

The moratorium will allow the Manpower Office to adjust to the funding reduction.

County officials learned late last week that the recently enacted federal national Manpower legislation emphasized greater placement of unemployed workers in the private sector and placed stricter limits on the length of time workers can remain in CETA programs.

Riley said unemployment is relatively low in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties compared to other parts of the country. He cited the high employment in the local electronics industry.

County officials noted that both Proposition 13 and President Carter's inflation program have put new pressures on the federal budget.

Wallace said it is unlikely that workers now enrolled in CETA programs would be terminated, but many of them will not be replaced when their terms of employment expire.

The federal legislation impacts the following programs offered in this county:

- Public service employment funded at $11.8 million last fiscal year will be cut to $7.4 million.

- Youth employment and training programs funded at $980,000 last year will be reduced to $532,000.

- Youth community and conservation and improvement programs funded last year at $230,000 will be cut to $180,492.

- An adult job training program will be cut from $3.9 million last year to $3.5 million.

Welbon Wants Stories 'Repudiated'

Eddie C. Welbon, director of a Daly City youth employment project, asked the Daly City City Council at a study session Monday night to "repudiate this slanderous movement on behalf of newspapers in this city and this county."

Welbon, who heads the Daly City Community Multi-Purpose and Educational Service Center and other publicly funded projects that have been the subject of recent newspaper stories, told the council, "I would like this council to have a public hearing on these charges. I would like to see this halted."

Mayor William Schumacher shook his head at that suggestion and City

Attorney Albert Polonsky said, "We're not trying the newspapers."

The mayor informed Welbon that there was no time allotted during council study sessions for oral communications from the public.

"You're welcome to come to any regular council meeting to discuss what you want," he said.

SamTrans Rewards D.C. Patrons With More Buses

A new high in Daly City bus ridership has resulted in more frequent San Mateo County Transit District trips on Route 20C, between the Daly City BART station and Serramonte Shopping Center.

According to SamTrans General Manager John T. Mauro, "Daly City has always been the countywide leader in ridership, but recent counts of more than 9,000 passengers per day show a 12 percent increase over Daly City ridership just six months ago. By adding more buses, we hope to make traveling by public transit even more convenient for our best customers."

Service on Route 20C, which had been at half-hourly frequencies, now has been increased to 20-minute frequencies during the day. During commute periods, buses will leave every 15 minutes. From 6:45 p.m. to 9:45 p.m., service returns to a half-hour frequency.

In a second schedule change, starting time on Route 22G (BART Daly City to Daly City Civic Center) has been moved back one hour, with the first bus leaving Daly City BART at 8:45 a.m., rather than at 7:45 a.m. Surveys have indicated that the later starting time coincides with ridership patterns.

New schedules are available on SamTrans buses, at City Hall, and at SamTrans sales outlets in Daly City.

DC Mulls Rec, Animal Cost Restorations

Two proposals that would take away part of Proposition 13's bite were introduced Monday at a study session of the Daly City City Council.

Recreation Director Charles Vincent asked the council to hire back recreation leaders at the same salaries they earned before the cutbacks inspired by Proposition 13 were made.

He explained that the city is not attracting many of its experienced personnel to apply for recreation leader openings that pay $2.75 and $3 per hour, since they used to be paid $4.24 per hour.

Vincent estimated it would cost the city $11,000 to $15,000 more to pay all its experienced recreation leaders their previous salaries.

Councilman Anthony Giammona voiced enthusiasm for the idea, which has the support of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Mayor William Schumacher asked Vincent to report on the details of his proposal at the next council meeting.

City Manager David Rowe introduced a countywide proposal for reinstating animal control services that were curtailed severely following passage of Prop. 13.

Under the plan, each city would contribute a sum figured according to its population and assessed valuation. Daly City's share would be $11,600.

The proposal also calls for increasing dog license fees by 50 percent and to increase impound and board fees and penalties on late licenses by an average of 25 percent.

Schumacher, who sat on the task force that developed the plan for the county, told the other councilmen the plan was a bargain and that cities have the responsibility of providing animal protection services.

Among the other items brought before the council:

- The city will be filling two information and referral specialist positions, at a salary as yet undetermined.

- Acting Director of Finance Ronald Mitchell recommended that the council terminate the city's agreement with the state Compensation Insurance Fund as of Dec. 31 and become self-insured for workers' compensation, as many other cities have.

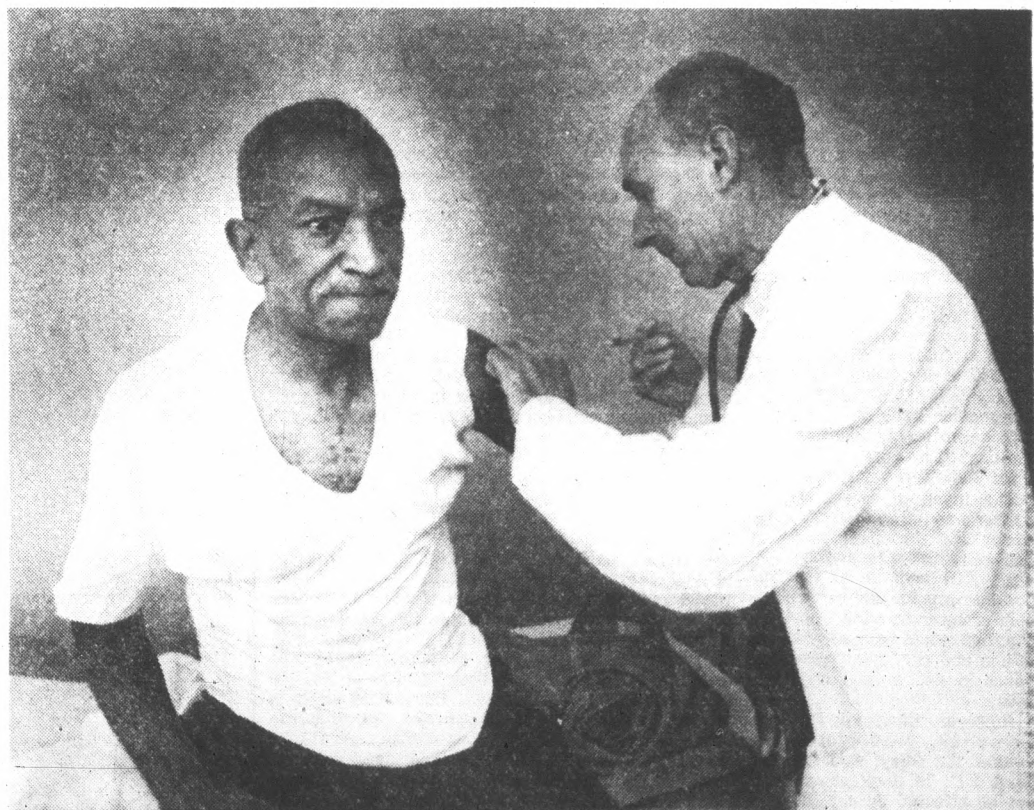

- The council was given a copy of a proposed agreement with the Bayshore Elementary School District which would allow the city to use five rooms at Midway School in Daly City in return for maintenance.

EXTENSION PROPOSED

This view from the top of Randolph Avenue shows how Hillside Boulevard (in the background) could be extended to run parallel to Randolph Avenue. The South San Francisco City Council has approved the extension. The project cannot get underway, though, until the owner of the land, Visitation Associates, agrees in writing to give San Mateo County the right-of-way for the road and to finance half the cost of the four-lane extension.

Planners Kill Condo Plan

Plans to build 39 condominiums on the sand dunes in Pacific Manor again were turned down Monday by the Pacifica Planning Commission.

Commissioners said the project still had too many units, the design was unimaginative and the condominiums were not set back far enough from the ocean bluffs.

Plans for developing The Cliffs condominiums at 4000 Palmetto Ave. were reviewed by the commission last month, and developer Jack Lowe's application was denied.

The Planning Commission was concerned at that time that the homes were too close to the cliffs, ocean views would be obstructed and traffic would be increased in the neighborhood.

The City Council turned the matter back to the Planning Commission when the developer said he would revise the plans.

Lowe explained Monday to the Planning Commission that he has revised the plans to reduce the number of units from 43 to 39 and that he eliminated a recreation hall.

He also said he reduced the number of driveways along Palmetto Avenue from three to two and that he has provided for a stairway to be built down to the beach for public use.

The setback from the cliffs still will range from 80 feet to 120 feet, he said. Nearby residents told the commission the project would be a financial drain on the city, that ocean views still would be blocked and that the site was unsafe to build on.

Also addressing the commission were two geologists — one who attacked the project and another who staunchly defended it.

Frank Petrillak, a resident of the Pacific Point condominiums, which overlook the proposed site, said that if the project goes through, then prospective buyers should be given a warning.

He said they should be warned — like cigarette smokers are — that living in The Cliffs "may be hazardous to your health."

Petrillak and other speakers noted that the cliffs are eroding an average of 1 to 3 feet a year.

Another Pacific Point resident, Chris Lee, said he had a petition with 183 names on it of persons who are protesting the project. This is the second petition the Planning Commission has been presented with.

His wife, Teresa Lee, reminded commissioners that even though the project had been revised, the original concerns they had about the project had not been addressed.

She said the commission had asked for a minimum of a 100-foot setback from the cliffs and that change had not been made.

The two geologists who addressed the commission were John Galehouse and Joe Crosby.

Galehouse, a geology professor at San Francisco State University, said he was "flabbergasted" to find that the geological report prepared for the site had some vital information missing from it.

He said the report states that in neither 1906 or 1957, when there were earthquakes in the area, was there any ground activity on the site.

"You can't argue with history," said Galehouse, adding that the leading reference material on those two earthquakes reveal there was activity in the Palmetto Avenue area.

"I would not develop anything on that site," Galehouse said. "I don't want any people's lives on my conscience."

He said four other geologists he knew would testify to the fact that the site was geologically unsafe.

Crosby, who prepared the geologic report on the site for the developers, said he stood by his report.

He said he was not denying that there was earthquake activity in the area, but what he was saying is that the particular site involved had not been subject to ground activity.

A Stanford geologist reviewed his report before it was submitted, Crosby said, and agreed with his findings.

Safety factors have been built into the design of the project, Crosby said, adding that the homes are designed to last at least 50 years. He said 50 years is the average economic life of most homes.

After hearing almost two hours of public testimony, the Planning Commission said it still was not satisfied with the project.

Commissioner Lee Foster said he agreed with the speaker, who noted that even though changes in the plans had been made, the primary concerns of the commission had not been addressed.

Radford Hall said he, too, wants at least a 100-foot setback.

The commissioner also said he wanted a design that was more rustic, one that was more fitting for the ocean site.

On a 5-2 vote, with Commissioners John Lewis and Ronald McDonald voting against, the project was denied. The matter now goes to the City Council.

PRE-SCHOOL DRAMATICS

Registration for the Daly City Recreation Department's late fall creative dramatics program for pre-schoolers is open at the rec office, 134 Hillside Blvd. The class, for children 3 to 5 years of age, is led by Joan Marvier and is designed to stimulate children's imagination through dramatic games, music, storytelling and crafts. The demonstrating young dramatists here are, left to right, Danny Galli, Danny Goncharoff and Robert Mumford. The five-week session is at the Westlake Park Clubhouse, 149 Lake Merced Blvd., from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. or 11 a.m. to noon, and is limited to 15 students. Registration is on a first-come basis. Mitchell suggested the council spend its anti-recession allocation of $2,194 on police personnel services.

All of these items are scheduled for discussion and possible action at the council's next regular meeting Nov. 13 at 8 p.m.

Bayhill Plan Stumps Panel

Because no one seemed certain exactly what it was they were supposed to discuss, the San Bruno Planning Commission Monday night continued for two weeks talks on a draft Environmental Impact Report for the remaining Bayhill development.

After listening to an array of speakers during a 2 1/2-hour discussion, planners voted 4-2 to continue the matter until Nov. 20. The commission has had the Bayhill proposal before it for about three months.

The move to defer the matter was led by Commissioner Pat Mitchell, who said he feared acting on the draft EIR because of the possible impact any extension of Interstate 380 from Pacifica would have on San Bruno and particularly the roads in and around Bayhill.

However, Chairman Pat Cummins, who voted against the delay, said the draft EIR in itself should not be affected by any 380 extension.

"If any factors change, then it's a whole new ball game," he said. "Any proposed 380 extension should not hold up this draft."

A draft EIR simply states the apparent conditions surrounding any future development. It does not deal with specific developmental issues. When a specific project is proposed later for Bayhill, that will have to have a separate EIR.

The build-out discussion deals with the San Bruno General Plan and how the future development of Bayhill 4 and 5 will fit into it. Once Bayhill 4 and 5 are finished — which probably is years down the road — the Bayhill complex will be complete.

Some 30 persons, most of them new faces at the Planning Commission meeting, appeared to air their concerns about the proposed extension of Bayhill Drive to El Camino Real.

With a number of them living on Euclid Avenue, they said they believe that once Bayhill is extended to El Camino directly across from Euclid, the state eventually would break the median barrier on El Camino and make that a full-blown intersection.

The residents, including organizer Rose Urbach, 440 Euclid Ave., said Euclid already has too much traffic and that if the median were broken, the narrow street would find traffic on it far beyond its capacity.

Some suggestions by the residents included not extending Bayhill Drive at all, extending it northerly off on Elm to Interstate 380 or moving the Bayhill extension slightly north or south, so it will not be directly across from Euclid.

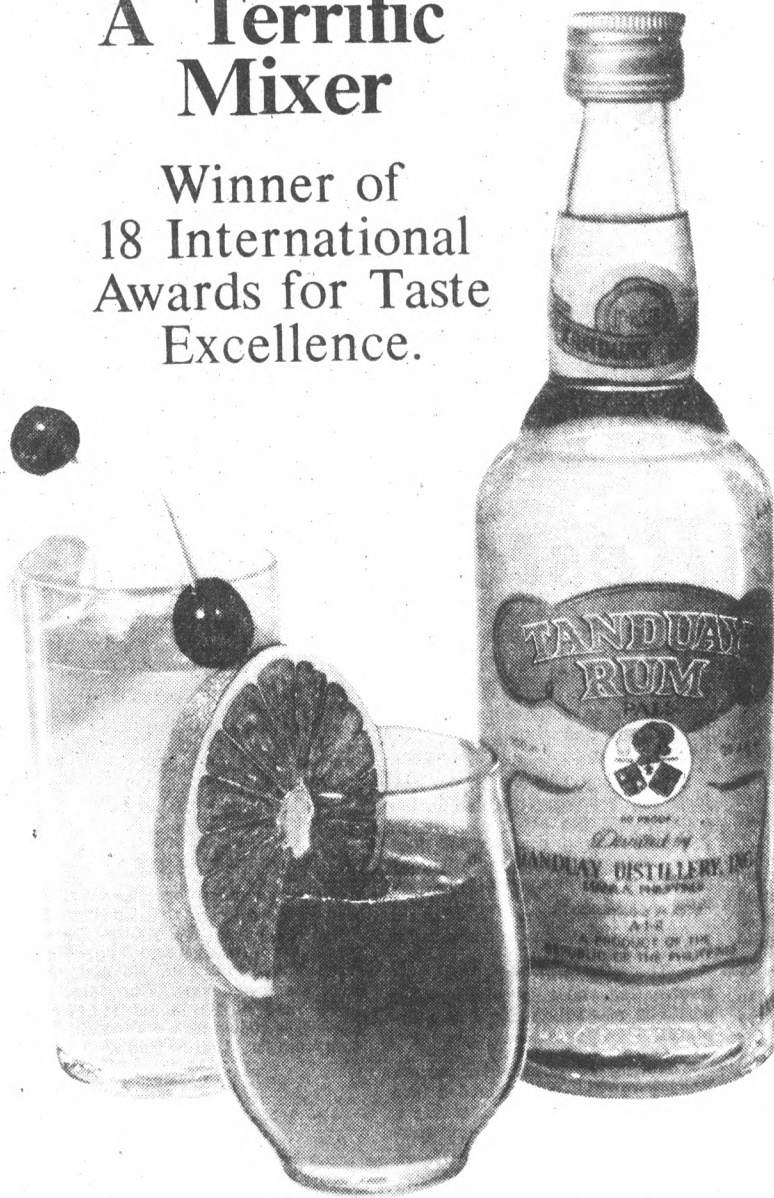

Although pointing out the extension of Bayhill Drive really isn't the subject of this particular EIR, Associate Planner Ken Niemczyk said the state has said it will not allow the median to be broken on El Camino.

J.D. Drachman, the city's traffic consultant, said he has talked with the state, which has indicated that an island could be placed at Euclid and El Camino Real to avoid any through traffic.

However, City Engineer Leo Van Dusen has said an island would be hazardous.

D.C. Rec Offers Dance

The Daly City Recreation Department has announced a late fall social dance program for those 16 years of age and older.

The six-week session will be Tuesdays at Westlake Community Center, 145 Lake Merced Blvd., from 8 to 9 p.m., with practice time 9 to 9:30.

The Nov. 14-Dec. 19 lessons will cover foxtrot, swing and tango. Resident registration deadline is Nov. 10. Fee is $9.50 per resident couple, $14.25 per non-resident couple.

All registration is on a first-come-first-serve basis. Refunds will not be made after the first class of each session and students will not be added after the second class.

Daly City/Colma residents will be given preference for all programs. Non-resident registration will be accepted only if openings are available following the listed deadline for resident registration.

For further information, call 992-5356.

Adult Guitar Class at D.C. Rec Center

A daytime guitar program for adults will be at the War Memorial Community Center Wednesdays under the instruction of Bonnie Gregoire.

The session will be Nov. 15 to 20 from noon to 1:30 p.m. Registration deadline is Nov. 13. Fee for the program is $10 per resident and $15 per non-resident.

Advance registration is required and fees will not be taken at the class. All registration is on a first-come-first-serve basis and refunds will not be made once the first class has been held and students will not be added to the program after the second class.

Students must furnish their own guitar and music stand. For further information, call the Daly City Recreation Department, 992-5356.

Reagan Hits 'Interference' Of Government in Business

By BILL HURSCHMANN

In a freewheeling talk supporting the free enterprise system, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan Wednesday laid the blame for today's "confusing and disturbing times" directly on the federal government and its constant interference.

Reagan, speaking at the general luncheon meeting of the Silver Anniversary Convention of the Red Angus Association of America, said meddling by the government and environmentalists is threatening to destroy "the last island of freedom that is left to defend."

Will Americans, Reagan asked, "use the vitality of the marketplace to save us?"

The former governor, who received a standing ovation both when he entered the Airport Hilton dining area and at the conclusion of his speech, posed the question:

"What should the government do about our problems?"

He then answered it:

"The government already has done too much. It is not the answer, it is the problem."

"Too many people have forgotten that any government has a tendency to grow too much," he said. "The uniqueness that gives us our freedom is that we are 50 sovereign states, but that has eroded in the past 35 years. We are governed more and more by permanent employees who govern more than our elected officials."

Reagan said that the suggestion by the current administration that businesses voluntarily hold down wage and price increases won't curb inflation.

"Inflation is caused by government spending more than it is taking in. When that is stopped, inflation will go away."

Profit today has become a "dirty word," he said. "Free enterprise is lessening and property rights are being diminished by environmentalists."

Environmental extremists, he said, are plaguing America. As proof, he reflected on a recent visit to Las Vegas, where people were picketing a casino with signs saying, "Don't shoot craps. They have as much a right to live as we do."

He also criticized the number of regulations the federal government has imposed on everything.

"We're covered by tens of thousands of regulations. If we eliminate the unnecessary regulations, we'd cut inflation in half."

"Too many people in business and industry have switched rather than fight. Alternatives to the power of government are everywhere. You can fight government."

"Why don't more of us challenge the arrogance of officialdom?"

Reagan urged the government to "get out of the way" and turn everybody loose in the marketplace.

"When government attempts to manage and control the private sector, that is when it fares poorly."

He also laid some of the blame for today's inflationary problems on businessmen.

Back-to-Basics School Going Over Well

By HEIDI VAN ZANT

Some old-fashioned ideas about education have led to the creation of a new school in Pacifica for students serious about learning.

The Vallemar Structured School is a public school that opened this fall after parents in Pacifica said they wanted a place where their children could get a "no-frills," back-to-basics education.

This "new" approach to learning means students have homework on most weeknights, do not chatter among themselves during class and have a respect for authority.

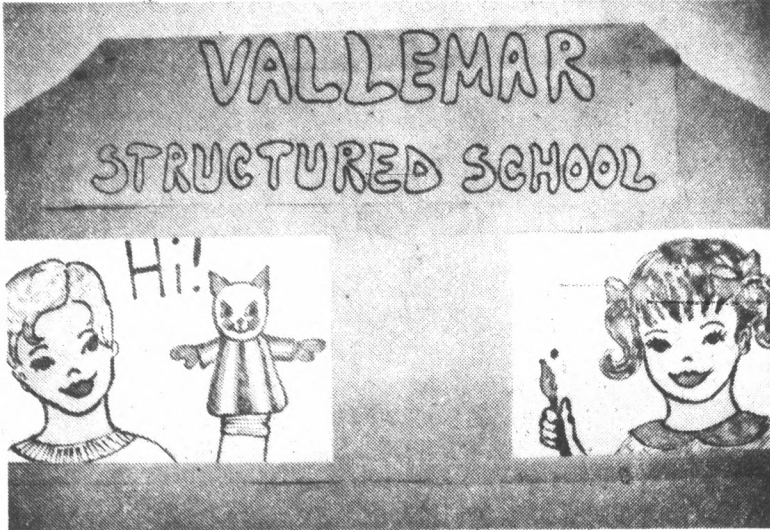

All parents have signed a statement agreeing to remove their child from the school if discipline and classroom rules are broken consistently.

Principal H. Clair McMahon said the difference between this and other public schools is that there is a more business-like atmosphere to learning and classrooms are quieter at Vallemar School.

"We don't have a silent playground or cafeteria but it's orderly," he said.

Students from all over Pacifica and a tip of San Bruno attend the school, which is a kindergarten through seventh-grade facility now. McMahon said an eighth-grade will be added next year.

The students at this school are not necessarily smarter or different than other youngsters, he said, but they do tend to have a better attitude about learning.

(Dave Dornies Photos)

BACK TO BASICS AT STRUCTURED SCHOOL

Vallemar School is a place for students serious about learning.

One word the staff frequently repeats when discussing Vallemar School is "commitment."

They agree that students, teachers and parents are committed to getting more out of schools than has been the case in recent years.

The principal said the students "are ready to learn when they come here. They feel the teacher is the authority and they seem eager and enthusiastic."

When asked why all schools do not put such a high priority on discipline and hard work, McMahon replied, "Some parents do not want to make this commitment."

Again, the word commitment came up when the principal said the discipline is "fair, firm and consistent" and that classroom order will be enforced.

"If you don't meet the commitment, you don't stay," he said.

A visit to several classrooms reveals that they look like those in a regular school. The teachers, however, are much stricter.

A sign in teacher Pat Ladner's classroom reads: "I must work quietly in class."

And her students do. At one point she wrote an assignment on the board without giving verbal directions. The students quietly took out their books and began work on the assignment.

When questions were asked of her, students raised their hands first and then asked the question in whispers, so as to not disturb the others.

The teacher said the class is so involved in learning as much as it can that class noise is kept to a minimum.

"Sometimes I even have to remind them it's okay to talk," she said, adding that one time she turned on a phonograph just to hear some noise.

The pace of the class is quick, she said, because students are eager to learn all they can.

"They literally complain if there is not enough," Mrs. Ladner said with a laugh.

First-grade teacher Florine Gallegos-Abraham said she is "really turned on" by the school, because teachers work together and parents are quite involved.

"What is neat," she said, "is we all have the same philosophy — work hard. Students are proud of the fact they go to Vallemar School," she said.

"These children know that they're going to a structured school. It's a big responsibility," Mrs. Gallegos-Abraham said. "There's a real calmness here. The children know what's expected."

Assistant Principal Dorothy Belville, who also is a sixth-grade teacher, described her classroom as "a very tight ship as far as discipline and behavior go."

"Basically, this is no different than what school was 20 years ago," she said. "The discipline is here. The parents want it. The teachers want it. It's just that the state has taken it away."

She always has taught school with basics and discipline in mind, Mrs. Belville said.

"The students know we mean business," she said. "It's the thing to do to be a good student."

Even the students said the school is working out.

Seventh-grader Keith Shanger, who transferred from a private school to attend Vallemar School, said he likes the school because "it's going to help me with my future. They teach me more than I was learning before."

AARP Votes On Officers At Meet Next Monday

The next meeting of the American Association of Retired Persons Chapter 1541 will be Nov. 13 at the Westlake Community Center at 11:30 a.m. Members will vote for new officers for 1979. The slate running for office consists of: President, J. Milton Locke; first vice president, Eileen Winter; second vice president, Wilma Riley; secretary, Lucille Herzo; treasurer, Grace Loy; assistant treasurer, Evelyn Wiggan. There will be other offices to fill also.

A Christmas Party will be at the Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco Dec. 11 with installation of officers.

By D. R. BARNETT, DVM
QUESTION: Do pets get dental cavities and if they do who grinds and fills them? How about false teeth for toothless old dogs? Our 15-year-old dog is eating mostly with his gums — he can't handle hard food. J.J.

ANSWER: True cavities are fairly rare in dogs and cats. Their diets usually do not predispose them to cavities. Calcium deposits or tartar does frequently form on their teeth and can be removed by your veterinarian. Human dentists working with veterinarians with special skills and instruments can drill and fill teeth if necessary. The major problems for most dogs are fractured teeth (which usually are extracted), worn teeth and dental tartar — which can cause severe gum disease. False teeth for dogs are not available as far as I know.

QUESTION: Is it possible for a dog to become insane — or are humans the only ones that go insane because of their thinking mechanism? We honestly think our terrier-mix, Joey, is losing his marbles. He always was full of pep and seemed to like everybody, but recently he's changed. He even bit my son on the nose, unintentionally we thought — but now every one has to be very careful because he's tried to do it again. No one picks him up anymore. I can't even begin to tell you the nutty things he does. Can dogs get their brain-waves measured to determine if they're all there? When our grandkids come over we lock Joey in the garage — they just can't play with him anymore. We're worried.

LM.
ANSWER: I don't think dogs become "insane" in the sense that people do, but they will often get "grumpy" and tolerate fewer things when they get up in years. You didn't mention Joey's age, so I don't know if this is his problem. More than likely it is just his personality. Terriers and terrier-mixes sometimes tend to be somewhat temperamental and snappy. Many do not make good pets for children, although there are some exceptions. They tend to be less tolerant of the typical handling, rough and tumble, etc. that children like to give them. They also are annoyed by the innocent ear-pulling and tail-grabbing that little toddlers always are trying out. If the change in Joey's temperament was extremely sudden, there may be physical reason for his grumpiness — in which case you should have him examined thoroughly by your veterinarian.

The Indian

By JERRY BECERRA

Jefferson's sports program has gotten off to a good start and all of our teams are expecting great seasons this year. The fall sports are: cross-country, C&D basketball, volleyball, girls' tennis, and football. This year our football team has high hopes for taking the N.P.L. title, especially after its recent victories over Westmoor and Half Moon Bay and South San Francisco.

OUR FIRST dance of the year was held on Oct. 13 by the '78-'79 Pep Staff. The disco featured "Dr. Funk" who helped make this dance a success. The profits will be used by the Pep Staff for Homecoming and future Pep rallies.

The first rally was held on Oct. 6. The Pep-Staff members were introduced in their individual routines. Coach Jack Burgett introduced our varsity football team to the enthusiastic classes. Pom-pom shakers were sold before the rally to give it more of that "blue and gold spirit." Upper classmen and faculty were very pleased by the spirit of the freshmen class of '82. They showed that they will be well able to carry on the noble traditions of Jefferson.

WELL, THE Student Government class had decided that, starting this year, each club is going to have to make up a constitution, which must include each club's purpose and a list of its officers. This year's clubs include The Art Club, Model United Nations, Horsepersons Club, B.S.U., Latin Heritage, Filipino Club, Senior Rowdy Club, International Club and the C.S.F.

The class class of the decade, the Class of '79, is making plans for the "dance of the year." The Homecoming Dance will be Nov. 3. All Jeff students are urged to be there to see the Queen and her court be crowned.

CONGRATULATIONS to the recently-elected class officers:

Class of 1979 — President, Jana Kast; vice president, Frances Jolivet; secretary, Sharon Gowen; treasurer, Paula DeNatale.

Class of '80 — President, Lorraine Wilson; vice president, Kimberle Johnson; secretary, Faanape Tautalatasi; treasurer, Debbie Jolivet.

Class of '81 — President, Eric King; vice president, Cathy Ryan; secretary, Alex Hong; treasurer, Bernard Thomas.

Housing Coalition Shaping Up

The Housing Coalition of San Mateo County is being formed to provide representation for tenants and for low- and moderate-income families in need of housing.

The coalition met for the first time this past week and will meet again at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14 in King Center in San Mateo.

According to Susan Jackson, a member of the steering committee, the coalition will work to expand tenants' legal rights.

In addition to backing rent-relief initiatives in the wake of Proposition 13, the coalition will work to end discrimination in housing.

to encourage the development of new housing for low- and moderate-income families and to monitor housing programs throughout the county.

Petitions seeking rent relief ordinances are circulating in San Mateo, Redwood City, Menlo Park and the County of San Mateo.

The newly formed coalition also is planning to hold workshops around the county to provide tenants with information on their legal rights and to gather support for initiative drives, Ms. Jackson said.

For further information, contact Ms. Jackson or Andy Parker at the Legal Aid Society in Redwood City.

Premier Service. A new way to use your checking account.

Now you can write checks when you need to and earn 5% interest when you don't.

Right now, Security Pacific Bank will pay you 5% annual interest compounded daily on the same money you use for writing checks. Premier Service is free of monthly service charges, if you maintain a minimum balance of $2,000 (A $500 initial balance will be required to qualify for this service.)

Security Pacific Bank's new Premier Service is really two accounts under one account number, allowing funds to be transferred automatically from your savings account to your checking account.

If you already have a Security Pacific Bank checking account, you can even use your present checks. (You need not touch your current savings account, if you have one. Premier Service is a totally separate entity.)

And if you have a savings account at a savings and loan institution, consider this: We can show you how our 5% Premier Service may pay you higher interest than your current 5¼% savings account and checking account combination. (Our free INTEREST COMPARISON CHART will give you some interesting comparisons.)

With Premier Service, interest is compounded daily and paid monthly. Each month, you'll receive an easy-to-understand statement showing your interest earned, your balance and your cleared checks.

We think Premier Service is a real "breakthrough" for everyone who wants their money to work as hard as they do. Premier Service: Another reason to do all your banking at the bank you don't have to think about.

SECURITY PACIFIC BANK
The bank you don't have to think about.

Holiday Happenings Highlight Organization

The annual holiday session meeting of the Friends of the Daly City Library will be held at the Serramonte Branch of the library at 7:30 p.m. today.

Mrs. Virginia Tierney, publicity chairwoman, notes that this is always a popular event that helps with holiday planning and budget-stretching.

Mrs. Louise Fletcher, home economist for the PG&E Company, will be the guest speaker.

Louanne Heath

Awards were presented to more than 50 young people who dedicated a portion of their summer vacation to the patients in Mary's Help Hospital.

Miss Friday extended the official greeting and provided all the introductions at the awards program and Miss Salguera and Mrs. L'Al offered some insights into the types of rewards felt by youthful members of the volunteer staff.

The hospital's regular volunteers, the members of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild, will hold their Boutique De Noel in the hospital cafeteria beginning Nov. 18 with a champagne preview.

Christmas decorations and gifts will be sold during the three-day, pre-holiday "extravaganza."

NEW OFFICERS will be elected Monday by the members of the Daly City Area Chapter 1541 of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Publicity chairman Servat Ojakian reports that the meeting will begin at 11:30 a.m. in the Westlake Community center.

Those seeking office include J. Milton Locke, president; Mrs. Eileen Winter, first vice president; Mrs. Wilma Riley, second vice president; Mrs. Lucille Herzo, secretary; Mrs. Grace Loy, treasurer; and Mrs. Evelyn Wigglin, assistant treasurer.

Members of the local AARP have been urged by John Fisher to join RSVP, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. Members have to be more than 60 years of age and ready and able to serve their community by volunteering time and talent to worthy agencies.

For more information about RSVP or AARP, contact Mrs. Lucille Herzo or Mrs. Enid Williams.

Over 225 Daly City and South San Francisco businesses now are participating in the Community Concern for Senior Citizens program by offering discounts to seniors. A separate directory has been compiled for each city, listing the businesses and terms of discount. There is no charge for directories.

Merchants offering discounts also are identified by a distinctive green-and-white decal of a couple under an umbrella carrying a shopping bag. The umbrella represents community concern for older persons with fixed incomes in their struggle against inflation.

While discounts help seniors extend fixed incomes, merchants also benefit through a larger slice of the preferential business from seniors and their associates. This is neither a charity nor a give-away program, but rather a two-way helping hand.

Discounts are offered to any person 65 and over, and by some businesses noted

North Pair Honeymoon

Kathryn Lorraine Marino wore an Empire-style gown of satin and lace Saturday afternoon for her marriage to Alan Bruce Baxter at All Souls Catholic Church in South San Francisco. The Rev. Charles Durkin officiated at the 3 p.m. ceremony and the Rev. Norman Nelson of Calvary Lutheran Church was the guest pastor.

Kathryn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Marino Sr. of South San Francisco and Alan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Baxter of Millbrae.

The bride's crown veil of satin and lace complemented her gown, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and white orchids.

Kathryn asked Denise Cordo of South San Francisco to be her maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Lynn and Lori Surdyka of San Rafael, cousins of the bride, and Diane Burns of South San Francisco. All were attired in dark green velvet dresses in the Empire style and carried bouquets of white roses mixed with light green orchids. The maids also wore wreaths of baby's breath in their hair. Jim Landucci of San Mateo served as best man for the occasion, while Chris Cilia of San Bruno, John Marino Jr. of South San Francisco, the brother of the bride, and Mike Shaw of Millbrae ushered guests to their seats.

Lori Sundman, a cousin of the bride, also dressed in dark green velvet for her role as junior bridesmaid and carried a basket of roses and orchids.

After the ceremony, the new Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bruce Baxter greeted guests during a reception at the Foster City Community Center. A South San Francisco home awaits the couple upon their return from a honeymoon in Southern California.

Kathryn is a graduate of South San Francisco High School and of the College of San Mateo. Alan is an alumnus of Capuchino High School and the College of Alameda.

For North County

Police Chiefs Want Action on New Jail

Police chiefs in the North County want more than verbal assurance from the county Board of Supervisors that they will have a new jail, according to Daly City Police Chief David Hansen.

Hansen said that he and the police chiefs of South San Francisco, Pacifica and San Bruno and a citizens' committee agreed at a recent meeting that the supervisors should at least set aside some land for a North County jail.

Hansen remarked, "I don't mean that the supervisors have been uncooperative. It's just that they haven't gotten to the last step. We would like some action."

He explained that the supervisors have agreed that building a new jail to serve the North County is one of the county's top priorities, but that they claim no money is available for such a facility.

The North County chiefs don't believe that. There's got to be some federal money around. At least they could dedicate some land for a jail, so we could seek out the funds," Hansen said.

Hansen noted that one likely location for a new jail is the county land near the South San Francisco courthouse.

A citizens' committee working with the North County chiefs helped lobby to keep the tiny Daly City jail in operation when it recently was threatened with extinction after a three-year federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act grant ran out.

The county Sheriff's Department has been operating the Daly City jail, formally known as the North County Pre-Arrestment Detention Facility, since Jan. 1.

Hansen said he believes the number of arrests handled at the Daly City jail proves the need for a larger facility. During the past three years, 21,988 arrests have been made through the Daly City jail: 6,752 in 1975; 7,676 in 1976; and 7,560 in 1977.

The number of arrests probably will be higher for 1978, since there were 6,852 arrests at the Daly City facility from Jan. 1 through Oct. 30.

Police from Daly City, South San Francisco, Pacifica, San Bruno, Brisbane, Colma and Broadmoor use the Daly City jail.

Hansen said it would take his officers about 1-1/2 hours more per arrest if they had to transport suspects to the next nearest jail, which is located in Redwood City.

Hansen emphasized that he has no qualms about the way in which the Sheriff's Department is operating the Daly City jail out of the Daly City police headquarters.

"It's just that some day, I would like the rest of my building space back," he commented.

Hansen said he and the other North County chiefs plan to request a meeting with the supervisors and county manager in late November.

SF Girls Win D.C. Gym Meet

The Daly City Crickets Gymnastics Team, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, recently was hosted to a Class III Compulsory Meet at the Westlake Community Center gym. The guest team was the San Francisco Gymnastics Center, coached by Elizabeth Selig.

The New York Times carried a front page story May 20 that conveyed the staggering suggestion that about 50 percent of the American people over the age of 25 are to some degree functionally illiterate.

The article stated that the U.S. Census Bureau estimates that 8.3 percent of America's adults are functionally illiterate, while many more cannot read well enough to pass a driver's test or fill out a job application. Still others read well enough to be pushed through high school and to pass simple tests but cannot get through newspapers or tech manuals.

While the situation is due to many reasons — poor schooling, many immigrants, people with low intelligence quotients and others — it is appalling enough to cause the organization of several reading foundations.

One of these is the Laubach Literacy International, which is a non-profit organization "dedicated to helping the world's undereducated adults rise to a new life through literacy."

Laubach's book "Everyday Reading and Writing" was published in 1976 by the New Reader's Press ($4.75) to provide a course in reading for illiterate adults. Starting with a unit on how to read signs the booklet leads the reader through such practical subjects as How To Read Maps, How To Use Telephones, How To Read and Write Letters, and How To Read Newspapers.

Each unit provides exercises for homework and checkups. In each unit words are introduced as they appear on signs and symbols and then worked into lessons that provide skill in recognizing the words wherever they may appear. In the first unit, for example, such words as exit, pass, drive, entrance, parking, office, private and visitor are introduced with exercises that lead the student to skill in reading and spelling each of these words.

The Laubach book recognizes that many people can read words, but fail to understand concepts. It provides exercises, therefore, in understanding the meanings of headlines, advertisements and similar parts of everyday living.

Another unit explains the meanings of words and symbols in such business papers as catalogues and newspaper ads.

For example, what does "3 in pkg. $3.33" mean? This unit leads students to read the words on such things as checks, bills and labels.

Another unit deals with reading instructions on labels and in how-to-do-it merchandise and in booklets. It introduces many useful words, such as hammer, saw, bottle and dose. For reading exercises it uses the written instructions found on materials or in kits for patching roofs, painting and papering the living room, and repairing a drippy faucet, for example.

Since the Laubach course is aimed at adults, it employs instruction on how to read and write directions for children.

The appearance of the Laubach program and others prompted the editors of Wilson's Library Bulletin to publish a basic list of adult education materials. Compiled by Melissa Forinash of the Free Library of Philadelphia, the bibliography includes several series that lead individuals to improve their reading, writing and spelling skills.

Included is Steven Udvari's "Family Development Series," created to teach family members to cope with everyday living. Also included is "The Hip Reader Series," designed to develop in the user reading skills phonetically.

Still another listed in the bibliography is another book from the Laubach organization known as "The New Streamlined English Series." Its aim is to provide erstwhile illiterates with skills in phonetics and in putting words into sentences.

The Forinash bibliography may be found in Wilson's Library Bulletin for May 1976 which is devoted to remedial reading.

Businessmen Go to Class

San Mateo County schools and the local business community have teamed up to provide young people with a first-hand view of the economic system, business operations and career possibilities through a new program called Project Business.

Project Business, a division of Junior Achievement, is operating in 13 eighth and ninth grade social studies classrooms in San Mateo County this semester, with 58 classes operating throughout the Bay Area. Through Project Business a top level executive works in the classroom, with the teachers cooperation and support, for one class period a week for 15 weekly sessions.

Seven topics are open for discussion: Economics, money and banking, financial statements, consumerism, the American economy, the market system and careers. The topics are presented in a fast-paced curriculum designed to involve and motivate students, using dialogue, games and exercises, role-playing and field trips.

The purpose of the program is to eliminate some misconceptions about business and to explore the students' current and future roles in the business world and society in general, according to JA Area Manager Gary S. Skootsky.

Project Business is the fastest growing educational program of its type in the country, currently involving 100,000 students nationwide. The entire cost of the program, $375 per class, is borne by the business providing the executive. The school is asked to cooperate by making time available for two field trips per class. Project Business has been well received by the educational and business community and it is anticipated that the program will expand into more classrooms in the spring of 1979, Skootsky said.

North County business consultants and the classes they are working with include: Pete Singer, deputy director of airports and finance, San Francisco International Airport, the class of Cecilia Pelicon, Ben Franklin School, Colma;

Lou Gusto, manager of personnel services, United Air Lines, the class of Edna Meisekothen, Fernando Rivera School, Daly City;

Robert Leland, president, Golden Gate Casket Co., South San Francisco, the class of Irma Collier, Colma Intermediate School, Daly City.

Girl Netters' Promise

By GENNY HOM

Commissioner of Outside Publicity

In this column, I would like to feature one of the girls sport teams, the tennis players. This year, Serramonte's tennis team looked very promising with the addition of a lot of new talent. There were many new players and also a new coach, Dennis Treadway. Despite a slow start in the season, many individual members on the team managed to win several of their matches.

Returning players on the team were Shirley Ong, Linda Wenzelburger, Carolyn Vargas, Genny Hom, June Lara, Rosie Axiak and Carol Hall.

New talent on the team included Betty Anderson, Glynnis Fairley, Gina Hom, Amelia Magot, Jenny Malindog, Rhonda Mayberry, Teresa Miranda, Elaine Peralta, Cora Sison, Cecilia Viray, Diane Wight and Linda Wong.

Throughout the season the girls learned that it takes determination, hard work, practice and endurance to win matches.

The team would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Treadway and Anne Hardey, manager, for all their help and support.

Six players have qualified to represent Serramonte at the tennis finals today at Orange Park. Good luck.

Freshmen class officers recently were elected at Serramonte. The results were very close. Congratulations to President Gina Hom, Vice President Ilana Chinn, and Treasurer Wellman Chin.

On November 17, Serramonte's Executive Board will sponsor the annual Homecoming dance from 8 to 11 p.m. in the school cafeteria. This year the 13-member band "New Genesis" will perform. The Executive Board is hoping to break last year's record attendance for Homecoming dances.

Tickets for the dance are on sale today for $2.50 with a student body card, $3.25 without. Tickets will be $4 at the door.

The Executive Board also is selling carnations today for 25 cents. Show your friends you care, send them a carnation! The carnations will be delivered in the first period classes Nov. 17.

The Serramonte chapter of the California Scholarship Federation (CSF) has elected fall officers. Congratulations to Marianne Lenci, president; Diana Law, vice

D.C. Knights Families Bowl

Grand Knight Cliff Hollander has announced that Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, will have its annual family bowling tournament Nov. 12 at Serra Bowl, Junipero Serra and D Street, Colma, starting at 2 p.m.

Nine trophies, scratch and handicap, will be awarded in four categories: adult, male and female; intermediate; and junior. The Marian Council Perpetual Trophy will be awarded to the best council bowler.

Harrell Wins A Promotion

Oliver Harrell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harrell, Sr., 31 Abbott St., Daly City, recently was promoted to Army Spec. 4 while serving as a generator operator with the 3rd Support Command in Hanau, Germany. The specialist is a 1976 graduate of Jefferson High School.

Administrators Take Look at School Strikes

By TERRY DAVENPORT

"Work on your image with the public" is the advice recently given colleagues by the administrators of three strike-torn school districts speaking in San Mateo at a conference on teachers' strikes.

Dr. Floyd Gonella, superintendent of the Jefferson Union High School District; Dr. Claude C. Turner, superintendent of the Belmont Elementary School District; and T. Howard Moorman, assistant superintendent of the Mt. Diablo Unified School District in Concord, told the 18 other school administrators present that the strikes in their districts were caused by political situations that did not develop overnight.

The conference was sponsored by the School Employers Association of Northern California. Its coordinator, SEA Director Peter C. Sweets Jr., warned the audience that inflation and the "Proposition 13 mentality" of the public are prompting more teachers to strike. Sweets said there have been 85 teachers' strikes in the U.S. since September, compared to 53 at the beginning of the school year.

All three administrators who spoke said the unresolved issues leading to teachers' strikes in their districts were wages and binding arbitration, which requires both sides to follow the ruling of an impartial third party. They said they spent much time during the strikes trying to win the public's support.

Describing the 15-day strike by teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District this September, Gonella said the problems began last October, when the district and teachers' union were unable to agree on a reopener wage clause that was specified in the two-year contract.

When both sides agreed to go into the formal negotiating step of fact-finding in May, Gonella said, there were 31 contract points to resolve.

"I would say that all but the two issues of money and binding arbitration could have been resolved in two hours," he remarked.

The fact-finders' report did not iron out their differences. Demanding more money than the district had offered, teachers voted to strike Sept. 5.

Gonella said the district tried to conduct business as usual during the strike, hiring substitutes to fill in. As the initial excitement of the strike wore off, Gonella observed hostility growing.

Ill feelings were particularly obvious at school board meetings attended by hundreds of citizens.

Gonella said efforts by outside parties to act as mediators failed and that the majority of the contract "was put together by James Ballard of the American Federation of Teachers and Gary Mathieson, who represented the district.

Although a Superior Court judge ruled the strike illegal, the district did not seek legal action against the teachers.

Gonella said the turning point came when the issue of binding arbitration was dropped. Shortly thereafter, the strike was settled.

But the district's troubles are not over, Gonella explained, because it is not clear whether paying a retroactive raise to teachers will jeopardize the district's chances of receiving $7 million in state surplus funds. He said attorneys representing the teachers and the district are trying to resolve that issue through the courts.

Turner described similar happenings during the short "non-strike" that occurred in the Belmont Elementary School District last year.

"The union said teachers were officially on strike and would let us know when the strike would take effect," he said.

Expecting the official walk-out at any moment, Turner hired substitutes and mapped out a contingency plan for operating the district without teachers. Before an actual strike took place, he said the teachers agreed to a settlement.

Conditions that Turner said contributed to the difficulties were:

- The failure of the district to achieve agreement with its employees on contracts. "They would say 'we don't agree with you, but go ahead and adopt the salary schedule anyway,'" he explained.
  - Teachers with long experience in the district took over the teachers' union and elected a strong leader.
  - The district aggravated teachers by calling in an outside negotiator.
  - The same board members had sat on the school board for many years.
  - The district's middle management was inadequately prepared for the effects of collective bargaining.
- Danger signals that Turner saw immediately before the strike included informational picketing by teachers, the beginning of a separate teachers' newsletter and jam-packed board meetings, where relations between teachers and the district became more strained.
- Turner advised superintendents not to expect the fact-finding process to resolve their problems with teachers. He said he read all of the fact-finders' reports in California and termed them "demoralizing."

Participant in session on strikes.

Other tips that Turner had for administrators included:

- Prepare a strike manual in advance.
  - Make contact with a public relations firm that can help your district through a strike before one hits.
  - Hire a security firm ahead of time. Turner said one extra advantage to hiring guards in his district was a decline in vandalism.
  - Prepare lesson plans that can be used by substitutes at a moment's notice. Turner said he is convinced that his district's advance preparations helped prevent a longer dispute.
- All three speakers noted that strikes in their districts had left scars, but the most severe effects were described by Moorman. He said the 11-day strike in the Mt. Diablo Unified School District resulted in three mental breakdowns and one suicide.
- Problems leading to that strike included:
- A rapid decrease in the district's student population, leaving teachers with many years of experience feeling that freedoms had been taken away.
  - A conservative school board and superintendent.
  - Minimal or zero salary increases for teachers in recent years.
  - A one-day strike in 1975 that had a carnival atmosphere and quickly resolved differences.
  - The election of a "brilliant, amoral" teachers' union leader.
- Moorman admitted that the district did a poor job of communicating its stand to the public. During much of the strike, he said, the district found itself reacting to announcements by the teachers' union about the progress of negotiations.
- Like Turner, Moorman advised not relying upon the fact-finding process or volunteer mediators — particularly when those persons are politicians. He said having emergency lesson plans on tap is essential.
- Over a year later, Moorman noted, the district is still feeling the aftershocks of the strike. The voters will decide whether or not to recall the school board Tuesday.
- Paul Loya of the statewide legal firm of Patterson and Taggart told the administrators that the Supreme Court will decide soon whether teachers' strikes are legal and, if they are illegal, who has the right to stop them — the Public Employees Relations Board or the courts.

San Mateo County superintendent J. Russell Kent asked the administrators to act carefully, since the financial future of education in California is uncertain.

Noting that Paul Gann, co-author of Proposition 13, is backing another initiative that would curtail government spending, Kent said, "That which has been unthinkable in some of our districts may happen. The way in which we manage events may determine the future of education. Much more is at stake than just strikes and the management of strikes."

Galligan Mulling Full-Time Post

Joseph Galligan said Tuesday he has not made up his mind whether he would accept the post of full-time San Bruno City Attorney if it were offered.

"I just haven't made up my mind yet," said the part-time city attorney for the past 21 years. His son, Michael, has served as assistant city attorney for 2 1/2 years.

Galligan's salary is $18,335 a year, while his son makes $11,037. The salary range for the full-time city attorney would be between $28,000 and $34,000. There is no provision in the 1978-79 fiscal year budget for an assistant city attorney.

One of the problems the council may face in finding a full-time city attorney is a stipulation that the attorney could not have an outside practice.

In addition to approving the job description, the council also voted to make the position exempt from classified service, meaning the new department head would not have civil service protections. The only other city employee exempt from classified service is City Manager Gerald Minford.

The ordinance authorizing a full-time city attorney becomes effective Jan. 1. Galligan said he has not discussed with Minford the possibility of becoming the city's full-time attorney.

Minford said earlier that San Bruno needs a full-time city attorney because "there's lots of work to be done."

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

Eat it your way, all the way down on a good diet. Flexibility is the keynote; stability, the goal. All the time you are losing weight, you are teaching yourself how to eat. At the end of the diet, you should be a Professional Eater.

You've seen the many who promptly forget what they learned and who revert to the old habits, old foods, and old weights. For those who remember, the battle of the bulge is over. Fat has surrendered completely.

You'll know you have learned to choose well when: The dessert side of the menu means less to you than the seafood side.

Your shopping list automatically excludes junk food. You bite into something that tastes too sweet.

You find that you are talking more, eating less at meals.

You fail to see potatoes, pasta, and pizza as necessities of life.

After a period of forced awareness, a time of conscious choosing, you have a new set of responses to food. The new responses become, in time, the old responses. The older the responses, the easier to rely upon. No more thinking. You thought while dieting. You made your choices between the thick and thin. Now the thin is the habit. You live with it unthinkingly.

Reward your new habit with a new recipe. Rewards are another strengthening device.

GREEN BEANS WITH LEMON YOGURT DRESSING

- 2 packages frozen French style green beans
- 1 3-ounce can mushrooms, stems and pieces (drained)
- 1 cup plain yogurt
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon onion salt
- lettuce leaves

Cook green beans according to package directions. Drain and cool. Add mushrooms. Mix together yogurt, lemon juice and onion salt. Combine with vegetables and chill. To serve, place in a lettuce-lined salad bowl.

Note: For a hot dish, mushrooms, yogurt, lemon juice and onion salt may be added to beans right after cooking. Reheat in covered 2-quart baking dish.

If you'd like still more diet strengthening recipes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116. I'll fill it with a folder called "Prize-Winning Recipes."

Help Wanted

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Volunteer Action Center of San Mateo County with offices in Burlingame, Redwood City and Daly City.

FLU CLINICS — Persons to assist at the senior flu clinics Nov. 9 in Westlake and Pacifica; the 13th in Daly City; the 14th in South San Francisco; and the 16th in San Bruno. Each will operate half-day only and various volunteer jobs are open on a one-time basis. Bilingual persons are needed especially.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — The next orientation-training classes will run Nov. 13 through 16 in San Mateo for people who would like to assist others in family planning. The centers operate weekdays in San Mateo, Redwood City and in Pacifica, where the need is greatest for counselors.

TROOP LEADER — A Brownie leader at least 19 years of age is needed in San Bruno one day a week. Training is provided.

TUTOR — Two volunteers are needed in Millbrae to assist young people in a reading program for slow readers. Days and hours can be worked out. Only the desire to be helpful and understanding is needed.

FOOD ADVISORY SERVICE — Persons to deliver food to homebound seniors in South San Francisco and Daly City. Delivery would be to a maximum of four homes.

For more information about these and other volunteer opportunities, contact the Volunteer Bureau at the main office in Burlingame at 342-0301. Interviews will be made in Daly City by appointment through the North County number, 992-0657. Hours at the main office are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded, in part, by the County of San Mateo.

For students interested in volunteer work there is a volunteer office, Y.O.U. on the campuses of College of San Mateo and Canada College.

The Gamesman Learning the Rules of Road

By RICHARD C. MOON

Since the days of Henry Ford, Americans have conducted a long-standing love affair with the automobile. Cars of every shape, size and color have been driven by an adoring public. It's a matter of course that most children will grow up, earn a driver's license and enjoy an automobile at some time.

Eager anticipation grows as children approach that magic birthday that will allow them legally to take their places on America's roads, increasing their freedom and expanding their horizons.

"Rules of the Road," a driver education game by Cadaco, should be received happily by any youngster you know who already is dreaming of the day when driving will become a reality. But the game is not just for children. Cadaco has created a product that is involved and interesting enough for adults too.

"Rules of the Road" is designed for two to six players and comes with a colorful gameboard, six cars, 96 question/answer cards, two dice (one red, one white), and checkpoint scoring sheets.

The object of Rules of the Road is to drive your car all around the board and pass all the checkpoints before crossing the finish line. In doing so, players must obey all traffic rules and signs and answer questions on cards before moving their cars. Incorrect answers mean "paying" a traffic fine (moving backwards or losing a turn). If you answer correctly you move ahead or get an extra turn.

The real key to this game is your knowledge of driving rules. The information and content of Rules of the Road, including each question and answer, is based meticulously on the common state laws and regulations in the United States. Although there may be some slight variations between driving laws in your state and statements on the question/answer cards, for the most part you will find the information accurate. For this reason it is a tremendous way to educate prospective drivers about laws and regulations, and any driver education student doubtless will find this game helpful.

Rules of the Road also is fun. Playing this game definitely is an enjoyable experience. It is fast-moving, absorbing and the required combination of skill and luck is enough to make victory a challenge.

Also built into Rules of the Road are the common annoyances we all have experienced in our driving lives. For instance, you can park inadvertently in a tow-away zone and find your car has been moved to the police garage. Or, you can suffer penalties for parking by a fire hydrant or in a crosswalk. You also may find yourself following a slow-moving opponent on a one lane road.

Rules of the Road is a well-designed, well-conceived game and the gameboard is detailed impressively. Now several years old, this game has survived the test of time and will be enjoyed by many game lovers for years to come.

Mary's Help Hospital Guild will feature a champagne opening from 7 to 9 p.m. Nov. 16 for its Christmas boutique in the hospital cafeteria. Alice Nappi, left, and Jo Canton, boutique workers, show off some of the items to be offered. Many handmade items and baked goods will be available from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 17, 18 and 19. All proceeds will go toward the hospital expansion program.

BOUQUET PREVIEW

Ramblings

By STEVE KAUFMAN

Although many times Westmoor seems quiet, a close look reveals several activities giving the school an appearance of being busy.

My good wishes to Mrs. Marie Delucci, the secretary of Vice Principal Jim Zylla. She was promoted to the principal's secretary at Terra Nova. Her many long hours of dedicated work for Westmoor will be remembered.

The community and band parents are invited to the first meeting of the school year of TEMPO. The (E) involved is one of the most active parents' organizations at Westmoor, aside from the PTA. Throughout the year, they support members of the music department by raising money for trips and planning assisting in the various band activities.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Westmoor Band Room.

Officers will be elected, plans will be discussed and members will become acquainted with new "recruits." Coffee and cookies will be served.

While on the subject of music, congratulations to the Westmoor chapter of the Tri-M Society (Modern Music Masters for an excellent Octoberfest celebration Oct. 27. Students participating played various games, ate excellent food and enjoyed the spirit of this holiday.

A vote of thanks is in order for Westmoor's student government for an excellent harvest Moon Disco Dance Oct. 28. This was the first dance of the school year, and many people enjoyed the popular mobile disco show.

All of the members of the senior class will assemble outside on the lawn Thursday for their collective senior photo. This always has proved to be a popular item, and each year students crowd around the display photo in the main office asking, "Where am I? Where am I?" The orders for this picture will go on sale soon.

Congratulations to Student Body President Angela Rizzo, who was chosen as Student of the Month by the Exchange Club of Daly City.

As has been the case many years past, the Class of 1979 sold Flower-Grains to the school. This is a unique way to send flowers to your sweetheart. One pays for the number of flowers to be sent and is given an index card for each person to receive flowers. On the day of the Homecoming, Nov. 9, flowers and cards will be delivered during first period.

Good luck to Westmoor's newest club, the Chess Club. Under the direction of President Jamie Guzman, this organization welcomes the beginning chess player as well as the advanced.

It's been a week of many meetings for many

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

While variety may be the spice of life, bringing variety into our menus often is easier said than done. Today's recipe offers a different dish, broiled red snapper. While red snapper is indicated in the recipe, many other varieties of fish are suitable. Flounder, halibut, sea bass, sole and swordfish will qualify; so will catfish, yellow or ocean perch, blue fish, haddock or hake.

All these fish are lean and they take to a buttery lemon sauce as fish takes to water. Baste with the sauce before and during the broiling, which will take only a short time for most varieties, since fish is tender. (After brushing with the butter sauce, heat the remainder and serve as "pass along" so none goes to waste.)

GRILLED RED SNAPPER

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
  - 1/4 cup lemon juice
  - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
  - 1/4 teaspoon onion salt
  - Chopped parsley, for garnish
  - 2 pounds red snapper
- Melt the half-cup butter in a one-quart saucepan; add the fourth-cup lemon juice, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and fourth-teaspoon onion salt, mix well; remove from heat.

Brush both sides of fish with sauce. Broil two inches from source of heat for 7 to 8 minutes, basting occasionally with sauce, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Do not turn fish. Serves 6 to 8.

ALMOND COLESLAW

- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 4 cups shredded cabbage (1 small head)
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced and halved cucumber
- 1/2 cup sliced almonds
- 1/2 cup chopped celery, cut in 1/2-inch pieces
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped green onions

In a bowl blend the one cup sour cream, two tablespoons vinegar, one-half teaspoon each salt and dry mustard. Cover and chill. In a large bowl, combine the four cups cabbage, three-fourths cup cucumbers, half-cup each celery and almonds and fourth-cup each chopped green peppers and green onions; cover and chill.

Just before serving add dressing to vegetables and toss lightly. Makes eight (approximately 1/2-cup) servings.

MH Plans Smoking Display

Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City is working with the American Cancer Society to promote good health habits. In support of the Cancer Society's third annual Great American Smokeout Nov. 16, literature, exhibits and an American Cancer Society film, "Let's Call It Quits," will be on display at the hospital Nov. 15.

The Smokeout is a light-hearted event, sponsored nationally by the American Cancer Society. Its aim is to cajole Americans into quitting tobacco for at least 24 hours (with hope that they will go on to quit permanently.)

At Mary's Help, a physician will speak on the health hazards of smoking following each showing of the movie.

The public is invited to any of the film showings, scheduled for 7, 9 and 11 a.m., 1, 3, 5 and 7 p.m.

Girl Scouts Sell 1979 Calendars

"With 1979 just around the corner, can the 1979 Girl Scout calendar be far behind?" asks Daly City Girl Scout Association Chairman Mrs. Mary Ann Dale.

The 1979 Girl Scout calendar, in full color, with all special Girl Scout holidays, space to write schedules and one new feature, is on sale for $1 which is tax deductible.

Available from Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior scouts, the calendar sale is being coordinated locally by Mrs. Dorothy Carter of Pacifica.

Available this year is a new pocket calendar, also for $1. Either version of the Christmas or Hanukkah gift is suitable for mailing.

DAR Chapter Meets in D.C.

San Andreas Lake Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet at the Daly City home of Mrs. Patricia Moloney at noon Nov. 16. Mrs. Thomas F. Meagher of Millbrae and Mrs. Clarice Richardson of South San Francisco will be co-hostesses. Mrs. R. Thomas Christy, chapter regent, of Foster City will preside.

In keeping with the theme of "American Heritage," guest speaker Mrs. I. G. Kepner has chosen the subject "Evaluating Your Small Antiques." Mrs. Bernard Schiller, chapter registrar, has asked that all members attend the Veterans Day observance at 10:30 a.m. at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Palo Alto Nov. 11.

D.C. AARP

Votes Nov. 13

The next meeting of the American Association of Retired Persons Chapter 1541 will be Nov. 13 at the Westlake Community Center at 11:30 a.m. Members will vote for new officers for 1979. The slate running for office consists of: President, J. Milton Locke; first vice president, Eileen Winter; second vice president, Wilma Riley; secretary, Lucille Herzo; treasurer, Grace Loy; assistant treasurer, Evelyn Wiggins. There will be other officers to fill also.

A Christmas Party will be at the Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco Dec. 11 with installation of officers.

At 24, She's Changed the Car Business

By JANET PARKER

When Debbie DeWitt was a secretary at a foreign car dealership six years ago, one of her tasks was filling out the commission checks for the salesmen.

She saw those men on the showroom floor every day and she didn't think their job was very tough for the pay they received in return for a sale.

That's when she started beating on dealership doors — some 15 in all — from one end of the Peninsula to the other. But, no one wanted to hire a woman to sell a car.

She finally stumbled upon Hartzheim Chrysler-Plymouth in San Mateo and the owner stuck out his neck to give the 19-year-old woman a chance.

Her first year was promising. She sold more than 150 cars. But, from there, her career skyrocketed until she became top salesman in the zone from Bakersfield north to Reno three years running. She gained national recognition for what Glenn Hartzheim calls an "astounding" sales record.

Last year, she sold 586 autos—roughly 16 cars a day without even allowing for a day off.

That's why Miss DeWitt, now 24, is general sales manager of the dealership. According to Hartzheim, she's the only woman in the country who holds that position for Chrysler-Plymouth and the highest ranking car dealership executive on the Peninsula.

"She has literally changed the retail car business and opened it up to women," Hartzheim said.

"When I decided to make her sales manager, people looked at me like I needed my head turned around," he said. Besides being female, she was young and inexperienced. And, it also meant taking one of the most successful salesmen in the country off the selling floor.

Being young, inexperienced and female hasn't stopped 24-year-old

Similarly, the conclusions reached in any feature articles or series are not necessarily the majority view of specific groups or of the public at large.

new car sales and financing.

"I intentionally put a lot of time and effort into it to get there fast," she said. One of her training sessions for new salesmen is on eating, drinking and sleeping the car sales business. She practices what she preaches.

Miss DeWitt, a San Mateo resident, will be one of the panelists on "Opportunities in Non-Traditional Careers" from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Nov. 9 at Canada College. Among the topics of the session, which is open to the public in the women's center, are opportunities in engineering and science, electronics, sales, savings and loan and apprenticeships.

She looks more like a vivacious cheerleader than a hard-working demanding executive. But, her boss says he's "never known anyone like her in my life" for dedication, ability and desire.

Miss DeWitt says her role has created a tremendous amount of interest by women in the previously untouchable area of car sales.

About twice a month, she tapes a radio spot with Hartzheim who skillfully notes that his general sales manager is a woman. It's apparently a winning combination.

"Everyone comes in to see if there really is a girl sales manager and they end up buying a car," she said with a shrug.

"There's no place I can go where they're interested in me. They want to hear about her," Hartzheim declared.

The dealer said there had been attempts at car sales by other women before Miss DeWitt arrived but hers was the first success story. He's not sure why it took so long — whether dealers discouraged women even after hiring them or if the public just wasn't ready yet.

"I got more reaction out of the other salesmen than the customers," she said of her first days on the job. She believes customers are more willing to buy a car from a woman because they're more inclined to believe she's honest. If anything, being a woman has helped her sales, she said.

At first, salesmen offered to do things for her — like move cars, fill gas tanks and jump dead batteries.

"After they learned I didn't want help, they didn't offer anymore," she related.

She's definitely not the type to wave a woman's liberation banner, she explained. She simply wants to be treated like everyone else — to be an equal on the showroom floor.

The first time she went to a new car showing five years ago, there were 550 salesmen — and she was the only woman. Everyone was talking about her, she recalled, but she was simply there to look at the new models.

At that same showing this year, about half the sales people were women, she said.

Her day begins at about 8 a.m. with a sales meeting for the 20 salesmen. She directs the hour-long session on sales technique. She spends another hour with the four senior salesmen.

The rest of the day is spent placing the deal, okaying on sales deals, working with the sales staff and directing the reconditioning of used cars among other tasks.

Her job is physically more difficult for a woman than a man, she admits.

"When I interview girls for jobs, I want them to know what they're getting into," she said. There are two women on her staff now.

Her best advice to other women with their sights set on a non-traditional career is, "Don't be afraid to try it."

"I could have been discouraged after 15 dealers said 'no' and decided not to try it," she admitted. "If you're really interested, you can give it a try and find out there are great things beyond. I did."

Stepparents Share Their Private Anguish

By MICHELLE CARTER

"You can't imagine what it's like to try to comfort a child in your arms who the child is crying for it's mother."

"But I'm the real mother. She's someone they visit on weekends. She can do no wrong, but I'm the one who's here."

The words belong to Debbie, a stepparent who is spilling out some of the hurt and anger she feels about her role as substitute parent to her husband's children. Her husband holds her hand and stares at the floor while the four other couples in the room nod knowingly.

And they do know. Everyone in the room is a stepparent and most of them have felt the same feelings that are tormenting Debbie, who has no children of her own. Those torments were so great that Debbie and her husband sought professional counseling, but they agree that the professionals haven't nearly as much to offer them as this small group of stepparents who have been there before.

The five couples who met in the living room of this Redwood City home make up a self-help group which has grown out of the Stepfamily Foundation of California, Inc., a Los Gatos-based organization of which they are all members.

Another couple in the group is Jackie and Dick Slade of Burlingame who have five children and one grandchild in their stepfamily — but only two (one son from each family) who live with them. Jackie is divorced; Dick is a widower, and they don't ignore the problems — most of them kid-related.

"Any stepparent who says he doesn't have any problems is a damn liar," Dick exclaims. "We were joking the other day, that we should number the problems that keep coming up and deal with them by number."

The biggest problems, according to the Slades, are favoritism and dealing with the "outside" parent — the one who doesn't have custody of the children.

"A woman raising another woman's children seems to be more of a problem than the man raising another man's children. The woman is in closer contact and is usually the disciplinarian," Dick said.

Jackie related that they had had a little of that kind of problem in their house recently. "Dick thought that my son was getting far more attention than his son. But when we talked to the boy, he felt that everything was fine. Sometimes all we need is perspective."

The Slades urge stepparents to acknowledge the fact that their situation is different from the All-American Family.

"A stepfamily can never be an 'intact' family and you can't put it into an intact family mold," Dick said. "A stepfamily is an animal unto itself, and it's important that the children in the family realize this and change their expectations."

The main expectation of most stepchildren, Jackie says, is that the child's real mother and father will get back together.

"But we put our marriages first. The purpose of this organization is to cope with the children while we make a marriage. The children will grow up and leave, but the marriage will go on."

Stepparents get off on the wrong foot, the Slades believe, if they feel they have to love the children of their spouse. "It's not necessary to love that child, but you've got to work to like them," Dick said. Jackie added that "the children of your own you love just because they're yours, but with stepchildren, you're constantly working to win their 'like' or their love. It keeps you on your toes."

It also keeps your emotions frazzled when all you get for your efforts is rejection. There are very few places to turn, they say, when you've taken all the rejection you can handle from children who have been tossed into your life.

"There are no guidelines, no rules and no places to go," Jackie said, pointing out that old friends tend to disappear after a remarriage because "they just don't know what to do with you."

So the Slades and other members of their organization are trying to draw up some guidelines for stepparents, for family courts which must make decisions about child custody and for professional counselors who must advise stepparents without the benefit of having been stepparents themselves.

Dick believes it's helpful for steppar-

THE STEPFAMILY: A NEW AMERICAN TRADITION?

Will yours and mine ever really become ours?

ents just to be able to state publicly that they are step-parents.

"Stepparents have to come out of the closet. It has to be faced without shame. The old wicked stepmother myth is over."

Stepparents have to learn that there's nothing to be ashamed of," Jackie said. "There's a lot of it going around, you know."

In fact, according to a brochure published by the Stepfamily Foundation, there are some 25 million stepparents in this country, and about 15 million children living in stepfamilies.

Then multiply those figures with the number of "problem" situations that are natural for stepfamilies: How to deal with extra sets of grandparents, the mother or father who fails to show up for visitation weekends, the aunt who brings presents only for the natural children, the wife who bristles when she hears the stepchildren praising their absent parent, the father who is prevented from seeing his child by a vengeful spouse.

"This group is the only place we have found help," Jackie said.

Self-Help Group Slates a Coffee

Stepparents in the San Mateo County area who would be interested in more information about the Stepfamily Foundation or about the self-help group are invited to a coffee at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norm Barratt will open their home at 666 Barneson, San Mateo, for the event. Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Slade of Burlingame can be contacted for further details.

Le Pacini

Let's play a little statistics game. Take this professional football team.

For the entire season, its opponents make just two more first downs than it does. This team has a higher third down efficiency percentage than its opponents (41.0-36.9); more total net yards, a better average gain per play (4.1-4.0); more net rushing yardage and a better rushing percentage (3.7-3.4) and average gain rushing per game (149.0-133.5); passes for only 80 fewer yards than its opponents for the whole 14 game schedule; has a better average on kick-off returns (24.0-21.4) and has fewer lost fumbles (eight) than any team in professional football.

There are negatives, to be sure. This team also has one of the poorer records in the net difference between total "takeaways" (opponents fumbles recovered and passes intercepted) and "giveaways" (fumbles lost and interceptions), with a minus-7. It is out-punted (37.5-35.0), and opponents return punts (9.4-6.1) and interceptions (17.5-16.6) better.

Penalties are virtually equal, our team collecting 99 for 830 lost yards, our opponents 96 for 820 in losses. Our team kicks 11 of 19 field goals, our opponents 13 of 22. We miss two conversions all year, our opponents miss three.

What would you predict the final record would be for this team? Considering all things being equal in schedule, at least a 7-7, right? Maybe an 8-6. With some breaks, maybe even a 9-5.

But, if you would guess the record at 5-9, you would know that the above statistics belong to last year's 49ers, and you also would know that they are totally deficient in perhaps the most important statistic off them all — points scored against opponents as opposed to points scored against them. In that category the 49ers were 40 points behind, scoring 220 while being scored on for 260. Forty points doesn't seem like many spread over a 14-game season, but that's three points a game, and single field goal wins and losses a lot of NFL games.

So what does all of the above prove? What we all really should know. Statistics aren't as good as scoreboards.

Other positive — and surprising — individual 49er stats:

Freddie Solomon is the leading active punt returner in the National Football Conference (11th in the NFL) with an average of 11.4 yards per return.

And O. J. Simpson, despite the fact that he gave up returning kickoffs years ago, is still the NFC's leading active kickoff returner with an average of 30.0, behind only Raymond Claborn's (New England) 31.0 in the entire NFL.

Anthony Leonard stands 23rd among active punt returners (7.8), and Paul Hofer is 20th among leading KO returners (23.5) in the NFC.

The injured Tom Wittum is third among active NFC (he's technically still active, though out for the season) punters, with a 40.8 average. He's 7th in the NFL. Houston's Jerrell Wilson, incidentally, still holds a lifetime edge over Oakland's Ray Guy, 43.4-43.2, as they battle it out for the honor of being the NFL's leading active punter.

Speaking of punters, Buffalo's Marv Bateman, who is behind only Wilson and Guy in the AFC for punting average (40.9), was the greatest of them all in college when he was booting them for Utah in the early '70's, and he still has the records to prove it.

Bateman holds the Division I record for best average in a season for a minimum of 50 punts (48.1) and best average in a career for a minimum of 75 punts (46.9). He also holds the seasonal and two-year records for most punts of at least 50 yards in length, with 31 and 51, respectively. Guy holds the three-year record with 57.

Bateman also holds the major collegiate record for average yards per punt in a career, minimum of 100 punts, with that 46.9. Guy ranks second in that category with a 44.7.

Kirk Wilson, who punted for UCLA in the middle '50s, holds the all-time collegiate record for average in a season. In 1956 he booted for an average of 49.3. In 1972 Zack Jordan of Colorado averaged 48.2. Bateman's 48.1 in 1971 could not quite match those averages, but Bateman's average that year is a record for a minimum of 50 punts. He got off 68 that season, while Wilson and Jordan kicked only 30 and 38, respectively, in their great years.

While we're on college kicking, a bit of trivia. Only four of the top 16 field goal kickers in the nation last year were so-called "conventional" kickers. The others all used soccer style. However, Russell Erxleben of Texas is one of those conventional kickers, and you know what he's done. Last year he made 7 of 15 field goal attempts of 50 yards or better (3 of 6 of 40 yards or more), which included the record-sharing (with Steve Little of Arkansas) 67-yarder, as well as the second-longest collegiate field goal ever, going into this season, of 64. In fact, Erxleben has five of the nine longest FGs in college history. He's also booted them for lengths of 60 and twice for 58.

A little ironic trivia. Little's 67-yarder came against Texas. He's a soccer-type placekicker.

But Erxleben certainly proves that kicking them straight-on is at least potentially as effective as side-winding.

In the end, it all comes down to who's kicking them, not how he's kicking them.

Sudden thought: Going into the UCLA game, I was very upset that Cal, with its 5-1 record including a tough loss to rated Nebraska, wasn't ranked somewhere in the top 20 by the nation's pollsters. Now I know why they weren't. Maybe I haven't been giving those poll voters enough credit all these years.

Time for your first annual Heisman Trophy (it's technically the Heisman Memorial Award) trivia quiz.

What team has won the most of them? Notre Dame, with six winners (Angelo Bertelli, 1943; Johnny Lujack, 1947; Leon Hart, 1949; Johnny Lattner, 1953; Paul Hornung, 1956; John Huarte, 1964).

Second is Ohio State, with five trophies, although only four individual winners, because Archie Griffin won it twice, the only player ever to do so, in 1974 and 1975. Other Ohio State winners have been Les Horvath (1944), Vic Janowicz (1950) and Howard "Hopalong" Cassidy (1955).

Army is next best with three winners (Doc Blanchard, 1945; Glenn Davis, 1946, and Pete Dawkins (1958). Double winners have been Yale, Oklahoma, Navy and USC.

Bet you think that most of the winners have been quarterbacks, right? Not so. Not nearly so. Halfbacks have taken home 27 Heismans, quarterbacks only 12.

There have been two fullback winners (Blanchard and Alan Ameche of Wisconsin in 1954) and one flanker — Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska in 1972. Only two line-men have ever won the Heisman, and they were ends — Yale's Larry Kelly, the second Heisman winner, in 1936, and Hart.

WHO SAID SOCCER IS DULL?

In case you haven't noticed, those thousands of little kids out there in short pants every Saturday in the fall are soccer players, American Youth Soccer Organization soccer players. They seem to fill up every available grass field from Daly City to Portola Valley. Carol DeAnda, 30, is one of the coaches. She handles a girls' fourth division team in Burlingame, the Grasshoppers. A couple of weeks ago, they were playing the Green Machine from Pacifica at Burlingame High School and things got hectic, as you can readily see from these photos: Her face mirrors the athletic passion of the moment. When the game was finally finished, she and her players were pooped. The result: a 1-1 tie. Was it all worth it? Said Carol, "We played as well as we could." And that's what kids' soccer is all about.

Regents Top TN In Dramatic Finish

By MIKE FICHER

At the beginning of the North Peninsula League football season, Ron Cranshaw was an unknown quarterback playing on a Serramonte High team expected to struggle to stay out of last place.

Today the junior quarterback is the toast of the surprising Regent football squad, which has shed its pretender role and assumed contender status.

Cranshaw's two-yard touchdown run with five seconds left in the game capped an incredible 40-yard desperation drive to give Serramonte a dramatic 19-15 upset win over host Terra Nova.

Twice on the winning drive, which began with only 1:30 remaining in the hard-fought contest, Cranshaw completed passes to wide receiver Joe Nobles on fourth-down situations, each time the Regent season riding on the play.

"You better believe we felt the pressure. It was a do-or-die situation," Cranshaw said. "But we didn't give up like we did against Oceana."

Giving up could have been an easy out for the Regents. Terra Nova, now 3-2, jumped out to a 12-0 lead in the first quarter, scoring on its first two possessions. Running back Marty Connolly's one-yard run and quarterback Joe Belli's three-yard effort provided the TN points.

But the rugged Regent defense shut down the Tiger offense the remainder of the game, except for a Dennis Sadowski 24-yard field goal in the third quarter. And the Cranshaw-led offense pecked away at the league-leading Tiger defense.

"We felt we could beat them by using our receivers on quick inside and outside slants," Cranshaw said. "My offensive line was super giving me enough time to find the receivers, who also did a great job."

Cranshaw came out throwing and finished the game with 13 completions in 33 attempts for 162 yards, by far his best passing game this season. Nobles nabbed seven aerials for 102 yards.

"The way Cranshaw goes, the team goes now," Serramonte Coach Ken Cook commented after his team improved its league record to 3-1-1.

Serramonte appeared finished when TN cornerback Greg Miles intercepted a Cranshaw pass on the Tiger 2 yard line with four minutes remaining in the contest. However, the Regent defense held and Tiger coach Bob Lotti elected to take a safety rather than risk a blocked punt.

Sadowski booted the ball on the ensuing free kick out of bounds and Serramonte was given the ball in good field position on the TN 40-yard line. Cranshaw, using the clock effectively, marched down the field on the nine-play, 40-yard winning drive. Cranshaw's running and passing set up the Regents first touchdown late in the second quarter. The Serramonte signal caller completed three passes and ran for 23 yards.

The Tiger defense had yielded only 127 yards a game before the Regents found and exploited a weakness — pass defense. Cranshaw had time to throw and hit his receivers on slant patterns in front of the deep-positioned TN cornerbacks.

After rolling up the 12-0 margin, the Tigers chose a conservative offense, trying to run against the NPL's top rushing defense. The Regents effectively contained the TN rushing attack, limited the Tigers to 18 yards.

Cook hopes perhaps now the Regents can effectively change everybody's opinion of his team.

"We seem to catch everybody by surprise," Cook said. "Everybody thinks we have nothing, and yet we just keep on winning."

Turkey Tennis Tourney

What do turkeys and tennis players have in common? It's the Daly City Turkey Tournament for tennis players of all ages. Sponsored by the Recreation Department, this event combines adults and juniors as doubles partners in a random drawing. And there is no separation of male and female players.

The doubles teams compete for the turkeys in a best two-of-three sets elimination draw. Runners-up will each receive a ham, and first round losers will enter a consolation draw.

The first three rounds are scheduled for Nov. 14, 15 and 16 at 6 and 7:30 p.m. The semi-finals and finals will be Nov. 18 at 10 and 11:30 a.m. Players provide their own new tennis balls. All matches will be at the Margate Tennis Courts, 75 Margate, Daly City.

CSM Spikers

College of San Mateo's volleyball team blasted visiting Diablo Valley 15-3, 15-4, 15-6 Friday night in Golden Gate Conference action.

The Bulldog servers grabbed the spotlight.

To enter, leave name, phone, age, and $1 with the leader at the Margate Courts, weekdays noon to 9 p.m., or weekends 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Do not enter with a partner. Entries close Nov. 11 at 4 p.m. Preference is given to Daly City Colma residents. The draw is limited.

Ineligible Player Forfeits Six Wins

By DAN BERTELOTTI

College of San Mateo's football team is being forced to forfeit all six of its 1978 victories because of the alleged use of an ineligible player, Athletic Director Cliff Giffin revealed Thursday.

The Golden Gate Conference eligibility committee met Wednesday and voted 4-1 against CSM, ruling that their use of offensive guard Hugh Loveless in seven games this year was illegal. CSM is expected to appeal the decision.

The eligibility committee, made up of five Golden Gate Conference athletic representatives, was voting on the protest made Oct. 25 by City College of San Francisco Athletic Director Ernest Domecus.

According to the letter Domecus sent to GGC Commissioner Hugo Boschetti, "Hugh Loveless participated in the 1976, 1977 and in the present 1978 football season. We are questioning his participation or lack of participation in the 1978 season."

That is the problem in a nutshell. Just how much did Loveless play in the 1978 season?

In a letter sent by Giffin to Boschetti dated Oct. 27, Giffin stated several things:

1) "Hugh Loveless was a member of the 1976 CSM football team.

2) In our practice game versus Santa Rosa Junior College, he participated in no more than two series of plays on the special teams, and he was injured.

3) He did not participate in another game until CSM met CCSF on Saturday, Oct. 23, 1978.

4) He then played in the CCSF game for no more than a few series of plays on the special teams, and he once again was injured.

5) Mr. Bill Dickey, CSM head football coach, called the Golden Gate Conference Commissioner (then, Mr. John Freemuth (in the Spring of 1977), explained the situation, and asked that Hugh Loveless not be charged with the 1976 year of football eligibility. Mr. Freemuth stated to Mr. Dickey that precedents had already been established in the Golden Gate Conference in similar situations, and he approved the request, informing Mr. Dickey to include Mr. Loveless' name on the regular list which was submitted to the Commissioner's office of student athletes who did not participate the year before.

6) On Sept. 28, 1977, I submitted a list of six student athletes to the Commissioner, stating they were registered with the GGC for football during the 1976 season, but did not play. Hugh Loveless' name appears on this list.

7) On Sept. 18, 1978, I submitted a list of three student athletes who had participated in only one season of football at CSM prior to the fall of 1978. Hugh Loveless' name also appears on this list.

The Athletic Code of the California Community and Junior College Association states in Chapter 5, Section 5.07, Article 5.071 that:

"No athlete shall be allowed more than two seasons of collegiate competition in any one sport. Exceptions may be made by the conference on the basis of injury to or illness of the athlete."

Giffin furthermore maintains that "when Commissioner Freemuth gave his telephone approval to Coach Dickey for not charging Hugh Loveless with the 1976 year of football eligibility, and the fact that we turned his name in as a player who had not played (at the suggestion of Freemuth), that we followed all necessary rules and regulations of not only the State Athletic Code, but of the Golden Gate Conference Constitution."

Giffin called Freemuth last week and he concurred with everything Giffin had said. Just to make sure, Giffin called Freemuth (who resigned as GGC Commissioner before the start of the year) earlier this week just to make sure about what Giffin had said in his letter. According to Giffin, Freemuth again agreed.

"I urged John Freemuth to put into writing the course of events and mail them to Commissioner Boschetti. He said he would do so. After waiting for over a week and at Hugo Boschetti's insistence, I telephoned John Freemuth to ascertain why the letter had not been sent. He informed me that the letter was in the mail.

"In this telephone conversation, Thursday evening, Oct. 26, 1978, Mr. Freemuth informed me of the contents of the letter. There had been a complete reversal of stance, and he was not stating in the letter the same comments he had stated to me over the telephone twice during the past 10 days."

Giffin later learned that Freemuth had been contacted by Domecus who said he was filing a protest against CSM.

"At this time Mr. Freemuth changed his mind as to exactly what had taken place, and wrote the letter to Commissioner Boschetti," said Giffin's letter.

In Freemuth's letter to Boschetti, he disagrees with what Dickey said went on in their conversation.

"He (Dickey) asked me about the possibility of obtaining another year's eligibility for the young man and I indicated that he should apply for this under the hardship clause of the state code rules which permits a conference to make such a decision.

"I honestly do not know if Mr. Dickey submitted such a letter. If he did, it should be in the files I turned over to Mr. Boschetti. Also, CSM would have a copy signed by me, granting another year's competition.

"I maintain that the procedure involving telephone approval of conference eligibility problems was a practice employed by Mr. Freemuth on more than one occasion during his tenure as commissioner, and I speak categorically that John Freemuth's recollections were completely changed during the approximately 10-day period," Giffin said.

Camino Spikers Tip Serramonte

El Camino High's volleyball team, after two losses in its last three games, got back on the winning track by beating a tough Serramonte team 15-10, 15-11 Friday to gain sole possession of the runnerup spot in the North Peninsula League race.

EC still ran into serving problems and suffered concentration lapses in the middle part of its games, but got steady sets (24 of 25) from Cheryl Sheldine and clutch serving from Dawn Prince (15 of 15) to eke out the win.

Robin Petrini, South City's Ms. Volleyball, is out for the season since breaking her foot after SSF's win against Terra Nova on Wednesday. So the Warriors had to do some adjusting and compensated for the loss well enough to earn them a 15-5, 15-11 win over Jefferson.

Showing the way with confident court leadership and strong spiking was SSF senior Fran Simontacchi, the only remaining veteran on the league-leading Warrior team.

Braced by spiking from Sue Koo, Westmoor held its game together long enough to get by Half Moon Bay 15-13, 15-8 at the coastside gym and move into a third-place tie with Serramonte.

Serra Nova continues its late playoff drive, notching its fourth win in its last five games by defeating Oceana, 15-11, 15-2.

NPL JV SCORES — Oceana 3, Terra Nova 15-10, 15-8; South City 3, Jefferson 20 (forfeit); Westmoor 3, Half Moon Bay 15-6, 15-11; El Camino 3, Serramonte 15-11, 15-14.

NPL STANDINGS — Varsity: South City 5, El Camino 4, Serramonte 3, Westmoor 2, Terra Nova 1, Oceana 0, Half Moon Bay 0, Jefferson 0.

Next NPL Games: Monday, Nov. 6 at 3:15 p.m., Oceana at Jefferson, El Camino at Terra Nova, Westmoor at Serramonte, South City at Half Moon Bay.

Giffin and Dickey concur that the way Dickey went about trying to get clearance for Loveless' extra year of eligibility was wrong. Giffin was not informed of Dickey's original phone call to Freemuth.

"He should have informed me and I would have pursued the matter and proceeded with the proper paperwork with signatures, etc.," said Giffin.

"The only reason Mr. Dickey did not follow this procedure is because John Freemuth indicated approval on the telephone and told Bill to include Hugh Loveless' name on the regular 'red-shirt' list. Mr. Dickey should not have telephoned the Commissioner. However, if I had handled the situation through proper channels, Hugh Loveless would have been granted the additional year."

But that is just part of the reason the eligibility committee ruled against CSM. The other reason is in Domecus' letter to Boschetti.

"We also believe that Hugh Loveless definitely participated in at least two other conference games during the 1976 season, making a total of three conference games plus one pre-season game."

This is where the major problem lies, just how many games did Loveless play in 1976?

Dickey, Loveless, or that year's line coach, Rich Statler, isn't exactly sure just how many games Loveless played in that year. Everybody agrees that he played against Santa Rosa and CCSF.

But CCSF presented game films from two other GGC games in 1976 which they say had Loveless playing in it. CSM has not had time to review those films.

Dickey maintains that after Loveless was injured in the Santa Rosa game his jersey was given to John Riddell, from Riddell, who had turned out late, not an uncommon practice at CSM because of the lack of jerseys.

According to Dickey, Riddell did wear Loveless' number 65 with the name Loveless on the back for some games, just how many isn't known. Attempts to contact Riddell Thursday night failed.

The appeals committee must meet within 10 days (assuming CSM does appeal) to decide on the appeal. At that time CSM will be able to see the game films in question, and may have Riddell to speak on its behalf, if it's needed.

Swim Win For TN

By KATHY FEIGHT

South Peninsula Athletic league trials at Menlo-Atherton High ended Thursday for girls swimmers with the first six qualifiers eligible to compete in the league championship finals Tuesday at Menlo.

Menlo-Atherton took four firsts. Breaking that dominance was Mara Sieling of San Carlos with a victory in the 100 free style.

Menlo Atherton divers swept the first three places. They were led by junior Maureen Kavanaugh with 345.45 total points.

The North Peninsula league was won by Terra Nova with a 4-0 record as they swam past Westmoor. Jean Morgan led the Tigers with a victory in the 200 individual medley, 100 breast stroke and the anchor leg of the 400 free style relay.

Half Moon Bay downed South San Francisco, 107-25. Monica Carpowich led the team with three victories.

Trojan HMB Blanks Harriers Warriors 13-0

2nd

Skyline College's hopes for Coast Conference cross country championships were spoiled by both the men's and women's teams of Monterey Peninsula College Saturday at the Crystal Springs Course in Belmont.

Although Skyline's men went unbeaten in dual meets, MPC's victory in the finals gave the Lobos the outright title on a strange combination point system that makes the finals worth one more point than the duals. The net result is that the dual meet season is practically nullified.

Monterey's John Sup (33:29.9) and Jim Christensen (34:21.4) ran one-two over the 10,000 meter course as MPC won handsily with 21 points to Skyline's 36 and 85 for Cabrillo. Last month, Skyline had beaten Monterey in their dual on the same course, 23-33. Final results show Monterey the Coast champ with 26 championship points to Skyline's 25 and 18 for Cabrillo.

Skyline's Bob McDaniel, who had been unbeaten against Coast competition, led the first half of Saturday's race but wound up in fourth, Mike Gull, in third was the top Trojan finisher.

By JAY LEWENSTEIN
This year's Half Moon Bay High football team — despite a lack of size, experience and healthy players — Friday revived some memories of last year's North Peninsula League championship season.

"We are doing the same things now that we have always done in the past, except that we have a very small team and are limited to what we can do with it," said HMB Coach Tim Opezzo after his charges had whipped visiting South San Francisco 13-0.

This is Opezzo's first year as head coach, but he was an assistant before that, and knows all about HMB's perennially small squad size.

"We don't field a big team," said Cougar quarterback Pat Donovan, "but we are strong emotionally because we are more of a singular unit, and that should keep us in a lot of ball games."

Much of the Cougars' success could be attributed to their pulverizing ground game, which kept the tiring Warriors playing defense a great majority of the afternoon. HMB racked up 158 yards on the ground and 62 through the air, outgaining SSF 220-140.

Dave Gibbs, playing fullback for the first time in his career, turned out a tremendous effort in plowing through the SSF defense for 134 yards on 29 carries. His touchdown plunges in the second and third quarters provided his club all the points it needed as the defense staved off the Warriors for the rest of the game.

Mike Setan, Phil Plath, and Charlie Baker spearheaded an ominous defensive unit in its first shutout of the season. Setan, also playing a new position at middle linebacker, seemed to be tailor-made for his new role as he led the Cougars in tackles and also looked tough defending the pass.

"Pound for pound, Setan is the toughest guy in this league," said teammate Greg Raleigh. "The way he plays is 'pure animal.' He is the core of our defense."

The victory improved HMB's record to 1-3-1. South City is now 0-4-1.

New Daly City Budget Higher Than 1977-78

At $16.1 million, the 1978-79 budget for Daly City authorized by the City Council is lower than the budget authorized in 1976-77 but higher than last year's, according to acting Finance Director Ronald Mitchell.

Mitchell pointed out that the council approved expenditures of $15.9 million for 1977-78 and expenditures of $16.3 million for 1976-77.

He said this year's budget would have been lower than $16.1 million had it not been for unexpected revenues from property taxes and city permit fees that brought in $1.1 million more than the city anticipated after the passage of Proposition 13.

Those revenues were offset slightly by less bail-out money from the state than Daly City expected. The city wound up receiving $640,000 from the state. But revenues reflected a net increase of $911,000 after all the tallies were in.

Since the expenditures authorized by the council for 1978-79 are $550,000 above current revenues, Mitchell said the city will take that sum out of its unrestricted reserves.

The city has $1.1 million in general fund reserves and $2.4 million in a special reserve account.

What did Proposition 13 do to Daly City's budget?

Mitchell said, "We never did do a total budget before Proposition 13. We were estimating a reduction in revenues of $3.8 million before Proposition 13 passed, but it really came out to $2.7 million less."

Inmate Doused With Acid

A 30-year-old inmate from the Sheriff's Honor Camp near La Honda was reported in critical condition at Chope Community Hospital with acid burns suffered when his face was splashed with ammonia while he slept Monday morning.

He was identified by sheriff's deputies as Alfonso Emery Jr. of San Mateo.

Deputies reported they were aroused shortly after 12:30 a.m. as Emery pounded on the door to the office of the camp. They said when they opened the door, Emery fell inside. He said he was asleep in the barracks when someone threw the chemical in his face, causing him to go into convulsions.

Emery, who was hospitalized in the intensive care unit of the hospital, reported he had been threatened by three other prisoners earlier in the day but had thought no more about it.

Woman Injured In Attack

Daly City police are looking for a man they think may have struck twice within five days in the Serramonte Shopping Center parking lot, robbing women of their purses and in the case of the latest victim, hospitalizing her.

The second victim was identified as Virginia Aalborg, 52, of San Francisco, who, police said, was exiting her car near Macy's at about 7:15 p.m. Wednesday when two men approached and one hit her over the head with an 18-inch piece of pipe. The men escaped through the north end of the lot with her purse, police said.

The victim was reported in satisfactory condition at Mary's Help Hospital today with a head injury.

Investigating officer Bob St. Amour said the attacker was described as black, 5 foot 10 to 6 feet tall, 160 pounds, 20 to 25 years old, clean shaven, light complected and wearing a blue shirt and dark pants.

No Election Of Trustee, Board Says

Laguna Salada School District Trustees in Pacifica agreed Thursday that they again will appoint someone to fill a vacancy on the board rather than call a special election.

Two months ago, the board made the same decision when Grady Hesters resigned.

Fred Jones was appointed from a field of 10 candidates to fill that seat.

Trustee John Plato announced several weeks ago that he, too, would be leaving to take a job in the East, and that his resignation would be effective Dec. 8.

School board members said they were bothered by the fact that the second appointment would mean two of the five trustees had not been elected to their positions. Yet, they said, the district could not afford the cost of an election.

Superintendent James Brien said that in previous years an election had cost the district $3,000, and that is after the cost has been split three ways.

Even though trustees voted to make the appointment, they said they still wanted a report at the next meeting on exactly how much it would cost to call a special election.

Plato said the appointment would be effective only until a regular election could be held in November and, therefore, "It is in the best interests of this community to appoint and not to call a special election."

In discussing how the appointment should be made, trustees said the process they used last time was good, but some changes should be made.

Trustee Marilyn Wills criticized the questionnaire that applicants filled out last time, saying the questions were too general and did not provide the board with enough good information about the candidates' opinions.

Brien said he agreed the questionnaire was out of date and said he would prepare a new one.

Plato suggested that a group of community members other than the trustees interview applicants.

He said when he was interviewing last time, he had trouble staying away from leading questions.

"I had trouble not smiling when it's (the answer) coming out my way," he said.

After a lengthy discussion, trustees decided to have a community group sponsor a candidates' night so that they could have the opportunity to observe how candidates answered questions.

Pacifica Coast Plan Backed

The California Coastal Commission gave a unanimous "vote of confidence" Tuesday to the draft land use plan for Pacifica's Coastside.

However, commissioners asked that some changes be made in the plan and that community concern about a proposed parking lot be monitored.

When the land use plan is approved by the state Coastal Commission, the city will be in compliance with requirements of the Coastal Act of 1976.

A final land use plan and implementation plan for the Pacifica Coastside is expected to be taken to the state commission early next year.

The Coastal Commission met in Burlingame, where it devoted two hours to reviewing and commenting on the plan.

Of several residents who addressed the commission, three said they were opposed to future plans to build a parking lot across the street from the Sharp Park Beach.

The draft plan is a document that spells out the current and future land uses for city areas to the west of Highway 1.

For example, the draft plan states that a marina would be desirable for Mori's Point, along with restaurants and shops on the west end.

Another of the proposals — for San Pedro Beach — is that whatever parts of the beach are not acquired for the public by the state should be developed commercially, with restaurants and shops.

Coastal commissioners said they were impressed by the amount of work that went into the coastal plan and they congratulated planning consultants Ironside and Associates for the a job well done.

They did agree, however, with the Coastal Commission staff's finding that the plan lacked some specifics in important areas.

The staff said the designation of special study area for some undeveloped portions of the coast was too vague and lacked the needed detail.

Planning consultant Bob Ironside has said some areas have been designated as special study areas because more than one use is acceptable.

He said that these areas require more study before a development is approved.

The staff concern was that, for example, the north slope of Mori's Point had been designated a special study area yet more detail was needed.

The recommendation is that some of the parcel be used for visitor-oriented development while the hill-sides are to be set aside for residences.

But because the draft land use plan is not specific, the staff said, zoning ordinances that regulate the density and design of proposed structures would be difficult.

Ironside said he agreed that the plan lacked some specifics, but added that the implementation plan that will follow the land use plan will have more detail.

Three West Sharp Park residents said they opposed the suggestion that a parking lot be built on Beach Boulevard just south of the Sewage Treatment Plant.

They said that rather than disturb adjacent homes by building a large parking lot, the space should be made available one block away in the commercial district.

John Curtis, speaking for the Sharp Park Improvement Council, said residents do not mind beach visitors, but they do mind those visitors parking in lots next door to their homes.

If the lots were built along Palmetto Avenue instead, he said, residents would not be disturbed and the added foot traffic along Palmetto could be good for businesses there.

Another concern, he said, is that the lot could be built just to hold it open as the future site for any expansion of the treatment plant.

Several commissioners said they could see why the West Sharp Park residents were upset and that they would review that concern again when the final land use plan is brought before them.

'Stalag 17' Staged at Serra

Students from Serra High School will be performing in the World War II drama "Stalag 17" on Friday and Saturday and Nov. 9 and 10 at 8 p.m. in the Serra Auditorium.

The story involves Allied prisoners of war in a camp somewhere in Germany. Somewhere in their midst is a traitor!

Serra cast members include Tim O'Brien (San Mateo) as Stosh, Charlie Marinaro (Belmont) as Harry, Dave Herrington (Belmont), as Price, and Jim Hansen (San Carlos) as Herb Gordon. Others in the play are Dan Latham (South San Francisco), Brian Richy (Belmont), Dwayne Stewman (Foster City), and Vince Licata (San Mateo). Also in the cast are Jim Hall (Menlo Park), Eric Lindstrom (Pacifica), Tom Sullivan (San Mateo), Adam Lynch (Redwood City), and Greg Ray (Redwood City). Others in roles are Ed Gory, Wayne D'Emilio and Steve Cortopassi (Belmont), Brian Kramer and Mark Crockett (Foster City), Chris Martin (Hillsborough), and Jim Long (Pacifica).

The play is under the direction of Tom Murray and Richard Lautze, Serra faculty members. Students from other local high schools are assisting with the sets, lights, and makeup.

Focus on Holiday Flowers

Jim Roberts of the College of San Mateo Horticulture and Floristry Department will present a holiday program at the Christmas show the Civic Garden Club of San Carlos will sponsor at 1 p.m. Nov. 10 at Casa de Flores, 737 Walnut St., San Carlos.

Roberts, an instructor at CSM, will focus his attention on flower arranging for the Christmas season.

Tea will be served after the program.

For further information about tickets, write the club at P.O. Box 954, San Carlos, 94070. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The last ticket orders will be received Sunday; no tickets will be sold at the door.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Finocchio's Now In Fortieth Year

FINOCCHIO'S, a world renowned night spot in San Francisco now in its 40th year, continues to attract and delight visitors and natives alike. The fantastic Finocchio EVE-ETTES dance and sing and strut their way across the stage three times during each of the four nightly revues. In addition, many of the Eve-ETtes do individual specialty numbers. LAVERNE CUMMINGS, CARROLL WALLACE, LORI SHANNON, RENEE DE CARLO, KENNY STEWART and SALLY and SHEILA, FLORENCIO DE LOS SANTOS and all the other Finocchio entertainers really enjoy their work. Finocchio's continues in its summer schedule and is open nightly, except Mondays. A cocktail pause in the cozy cocktail lounge at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant is traditional with personalities on the local scene. The luncheon and dinner selections are plentiful. PHIL LEHR spared no expense in making his Pay-By-Ounce Steakery, on the lower level of the Hilton Tower, one of San Francisco's most luxurious restaurants. The tablecloths are hand-woven of virgin French wool. If you'd like to see the sunset this weekend in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, enjoy dinner by-the-sea an hour earlier at NICK'S, THE MOONRAKER or CAPTAIN CHARLES restaurants.

GRAND OPENING

Joe and Nello Piccinini bring San Francisco dining to the Peninsula with dinners served North Beach style at their new Villa Jovanello's restaurant in San Mateo.

Cannelloni, considered one of Chef Jim Castro's specialty dishes, is YOLANDA'S featured dinner special for the month of November. Owner BOB McLANE has priced the daily feature at $4.25 — and that includes soup, tossed green salad or pasta, vegetables, French bread and a glass of wine. New policies are being initiated at BEARDSLEY'S in downtown Burlingame. During lunch, Mondays through Fridays, a complimentary drink is served patrons ordering one of the two daily luncheon specials. On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights an "Inflation Fighter" dinner ($4.95) is offered. If you're a Monday Night Football fan, be sure to catch the action this Monday eve at the KING'S TABLE in Redwood City. They have a giant, seven-foot TV screen in the lounge, and every seat has a 50-yard line view of the game. Drinks are super-size, too, with a tiny price tag: just $1. Before or after the game, enjoy a sumptuous buffet dinner — all you can eat for just $3.65. Hair Hunters, a San Carlos hair styling salon, has reserved Dec. 9 for their annual Christmas dinner party at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City.

TILLIE SCHOLTZ is now taking reservations for Thanksgiving Day dining at her TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT restaurant in Moss Beach. A traditional turkey dinner will be served. ENRICO ROMANO'S Rockaway Beach restaurant is a natural for pizza parties — to eat in or to take out. A best bet for pre-theater dinner at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," is the Breast of Chicken Tiffany (Boneless breast of chicken stuffed with almonds, butter, Canadian bacon, bananas, orange marmalade and orange sauce). L'AUBERGE in Redwood City has been a fashionably "in" restaurant since opening its doors over 14 years ago. Owner LOUIS FRUTSCHI is particularly proud of the numerous awards his French restaurant has been presented through the years. Frutschi is also quick to give credit to his multi-talented chef, Rudy Camozzi, who has been at the kitchen helm for over 10 years. Veal Piccata, Veal Dore, Osso Bucco and Chicken alla Aldo, sauteed with onions, green peppers, mushrooms, wine and herbs, are among chef Aldo Salvato's features at JERRY HOWE'S new multi-million dollar SERRAMONTE JOE'S in Daly City. Open from 11 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. seven days a week. Banquet facilities for 25 to 50 persons. First-time dinner patrons at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant in San Francisco are always delightfully surprised to learn that they get free admission to the adjoining Lehr's Bocce Ball Opera Room and Lehr's Cabaret Disco. Also free for dinner guests: validated dinner parking.

Winter Care of Summer-Flowering Bulbs

By IVA NEWMAN

Spring and summer flowering bulbs are beginning to ripen their foliage in preparation for their dormant resting period. The care they receive now will largely determine the amount and quality of bloom they produce next year.

First on our list is the tuberous begonia. Though not a bulb, we commonly refer to it as such when speaking of its cultural needs. Last August, when the Leroy Cramers invited Times' readers to see their begonia plantings, we did an article on their growing needs but space did not permit going into the curing and storing of the tubers for another year of growth and flowers.

The first rule is not to hurry the tubers into dormancy. If begonias have flowered well over a long period during the summer, then despite ample feeding and copious watering during this time, they will have ended the flowering season with greatly depleted resources and with their stamina at a low ebb, and if they are not allowed a period of grace in which to build these resources again, they will enter their dormancy in a weakened condition so they may not survive the winter. Let the plants keep going until they themselves indicate they are ready to go to rest. Fertilizing during this period is not needed and if given may prove harmful, but the plants must be kept moist by being watered when necessary until the leaves begin to turn yellow of their own accord. Do not over water. Keep in mind that the plant is not in active growth nor is it supporting a number of large flowers.

When the foliage begins to turn yellow and die back at the end of the season, the tops of the plants should be cut back to about six inches and the stubs left to fall off on their own. Cramer says that the stems are breaking free of the tubers this year and so far he has not needed to cut any of his plants back. His seedlings are still blooming heavily and not yet ready for dormancy. Plants growing in the ground are treated like potted plants.

Wait for Top Growth to Ripen

When all top growth has broken free of the tubers they should be washed free of all soil. Cramer lays his tubers on the pavement and hoses the soil off. We have done this for many years and it works fine. The disc-like segment of the old tuber must be removed completely as it may rot and destroy the present tuber.

Store the cured tubers, after they have become thoroughly dry, in a cool dry place. Place the dried tubers in a clean flat so they just touch, do not crowd them. Ours seem to come through the winter when we place them in an upside down position. Coolness is important. If you have a garage with neither a furnace nor hot water heater, it will make a good storage place. Cramer leaves his flats, covered with black plastic, on the shelves where they bloomed as he has no place indoors that is cool enough. In our garage we hang the flats from the rafters so the cars can be parked under them. We also cover the tops with wire mesh to keep the rats out.

Leave the tubers in storage until pink nodes show up giving evidence of new growth. This usually happens in February or March. Cramer uses a starter soil for his flats that consists of 3 parts fir bark and 1 part sand plus a bit of oakleaf mold. He leaves the plants in this medium until the plants are four to five inches tall when they are moved into the pots in which they will flower.

Another tuber that is reaching the end of its colorful season is the dahlia. When dahlia tops turn yellow or a touch of frost has deprived them of their leaves, the stalks should be cut to within six inches of the ground. We have found that it pays to cut the stalks when we dig the tubers as the big, hollow stalks catch and hold the rain causing the tubers to rot.

Dig With Fork

Dig these tubers with a spading fork as there will be much less danger of damage. First circle the clump about a foot from the center by pushing the fork into the soil and wiggling it sideways. Then circle it again gently prying up with each insertion of the fork until the clump lifts out. We shake and brush as much soil off the clump as we can being very careful not to damage the very brittle tubers. Next we set the clump on the paved walk and hose it clean. The clumps are then moved to a dry area and left to sun for several hours or until they are dry. Should night come before this happens we cover the clumps with a plastic sheet to protect them from the night moisture. Next we cover the bottoms of apple or orange crates with plastic screening covering it with a half inch or so of dry sawdust. The variety name is then written on each tuber in the clump with a felt pen and the clumps of scarce varieties are laid on the sawdust. These are the ones that will have every usable tuber planted. Each clump is carefully tagged to prevent a mix-up next April when we start planting. Sawdust is scattered over and between the clumps.

Then come the clumps that have multiplied until scarcely half the crop can be planted next spring. These clumps we divide to cut down on the storage space. We use a keyhole saw and divide the clump leaving a piece of stem with each tuber. Sometimes we find we must leave two tubers together as a separation might mean the loss of both. The tubers are then sorted and the best of the lot are packed in crates and covered with wire netting to keep rats and mice out. We always pack many more than we can use as there always seem to be some losses. Sawdust is used about these also as it prevents shriveling. Like the begonia tubers the crates are hung from the rafters in the garage.

Extra tubers are given to neighbors and friends and some are carried to the plant exchange tables of the different garden clubs. No good dahlia tuber ever need be thrown away.

Gladiolus is another plant that is commonly referred to as a bulb though it is a corm. It, too, falls into our winter care group. Ordinarily gladiolus corms are dug from six to seven weeks after the flower stalk matures but ours are so closely interplanted that the leaves don't mature. We like this as they keep us supplied with green material for arrangements. But come November the corms must be dug and cured for another season of flowers. Usually the tops are brown by this time so we can dig the corms, clean them, let them dry for a few days and then treat and store them. If the tops are still green, dig the corms and lay them in a flat with the tops still on. Cover with an inch layer of soil and place in a cool dry place until the tops dry so they can be pulled off easily.

In cleaning gladiolus corms we pull off the old, flattened, mother corm at the base and discard it. The tiny cormlets are dropped in a paper bag, labeled with the variety name or lacking that, the color. The cleaned corms with their clear brown, dry papery covering are placed in labeled paper bags and dusted with Arasan or Spergon. We used DDT until it was taken away. We close the bag tightly and shake it upside down and crosswise so the dust coats the corms. After a couple of days we poke holes in the bags for ventilation and hang them to the rafters along with the dahlias and begonias. If we can manage it we take the corms out of the bags and put them in flats with hardware cloth tops. Some of our friends leave their gladiolus in the ground for the first year or two with a fair amount of success.

Agapanthus Post Plant

Agapanthus Africanus, more popularly known as Lily of the Nile is the Plant of the Week. The agapanthus is possibly the most widely planted flowering plant on the Peninsula. It also enjoys statewide popularity, as it is acclaimed as one of the most striking accent plants in California.

The blue Lily of the Nile is probably the most famous of the agapanthus. Its handsome blue flowers on rounded heads are borne on tall stalks, above lush green strap-shaped leaves. The white-flowered Lily of the Nile is outstanding in its own right. The huge heads of flowers command attention without dominating a garden setting. If you are planning a border of the white flowers, offset them with the dwarf variety agapanthus Peter Pan which features miniature deep blue flowers on stalks which stay a foot or less in height. This little agapanthus is a charming accent plant when used in rock gardens as well.

While the blooms of the agapanthus are a highlight of a summer garden, the flowering period varies throughout the state. In Southern California, the blooms may appear in late spring. The farther north is grown, the later it starts to flower. Here on the Peninsula it usually blooms in early summer.

Beautiful garden effects are to be enjoyed by combining agapanthus with other flowering plants. Blue Lily of the Nile contrasted with fiery red-orange of Red Hot Pokers is a distinctive creation; the white agapanthus and lavender blues of delphinium can be effective together also. Dwarf golden marigolds, planted in spring, will be blooming and complementing the flowers of pan agapanthus in early summer.

The value of agapanthus as landscape accents is almost endless. Both blue and white Lily of the Nile are used to highlight low foreground plantings or to define borders or other areas of the garden and as their foliage is evergreen the plants never need time off in winter to go dormant. They can be interplanted with other shrubs, and this technique is used very effectively. The long, strap-like leaves add a pleasing dimension when combined with other textured foliage. Freeway planners rely on agapanthus for interchange plantings, and this large-scale beauty can be scaled down to parkway plantings in the home garden or a less planting of single-colored Lily of the Nile.

The agapanthus is a native of South Africa and belong to the lily family. The name is derived from agape (love) and anthos (flower).

In most of the nation these plants are grown in large wooden tubs. Flower pots are unsuitable as the vigorous roots soon crack them, but here on the Peninsula as we can grow them in the garden with no thought of winter damage. While they will grow and bloom in most any kind of

City Celebrates Camino Stakes

In tribute to its hometown race track that attracts stables and spectators from all parts of the nation, San Mateo has proclaimed the week of Nov. 12-18 as "El Camino Real Week."

In addition to the $100,000 El Camino Real Stakes race that climaxes the celebration on Nov. 18, there will be off-the-turf events and competitions throughout the city during the week.

There's something for runners — and for cheerleaders. A tournament for local tennis buffs, and a disco dance contest for those whose skills lie in that direction.

As a prelude to the program, the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce will dedicate its Nov. 10 luncheon meeting to an El Camino Week presentation by Bay Meadows.

The El Camino Real Tennis Classic starts Saturday, just after 8 a.m. check-in time at the tournament desk at the Perfect Smash Tennis Shop, 300 East Fifth Ave.

Elimination rounds in the cheerleading competition start at 10 a.m. the same day at Bay Meadows infield.

The El Camino Real Ten Kilometer Run (6.25 miles) is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 12. Registration will take place between 8 and 9:45 a.m. at Bay Meadows, and the race begins at 10 a.m.

All runners who finish will receive complimentary T-shirts.

The Conquistadores will sponsor a parade breakfast Thursday, Nov. 16, at Bay Meadows club house. At that time post positions for the El Camino Real Stakes will be drawn.

The breakfast is set for 9 a.m., and 12 hours later that day, the El Camino Disco Sweepstakes will take place at Tingles in the Dunfey Hotel.

Final matches in the tennis classic will be played at Sundown Tennis Club courts Friday starting at 7 p.m.

And on Saturday, Nov. 18, comes the grand finale day at the races with the El Camino Real Stakes as the feature event.

Pounding hooves set the thoroughbred season tempo.

Jockey Club Backs Sport

The California Jockey Club is affiliated with the Thoroughbred Racing Association, an organization founded in 1942 among major United States and Canadian race tracks to encourage the improvement, growth and popularity of the sport.

Robert S. Gunderson, president and general manager of the Jockey Club, is a vice president and director of the international organization.

Other officers of the Jockey Club are Les Vogel Jr., chairman of the board; Dr. William Ward, vice president and assistant general manager; George G. Gaugler, vice president-treasurer, and Lillian B. Dwyer, vice president-secretary.

Directors are James P. Conn, Raymond J. Daba, Carl De Benedetti, Marilyn K. Gunderson, James M. Harris and Dennis Jordan. Mae F. De Vol is assistant secretary.

Wagering, Attendance Records

Bay Meadows toted up all-time records for attendance and wagering in 1977. The gate count was 1,249,596, and the mutuel handle totalled $177,988,739.

California State government shared in the mutuel take to the tune of $11,950,693.

The City of San Mateo added more than half a million ($528,147 to be exact) to its coffers from the admission tax.

The totals represent a full year of racing — 189 days including meets for thoroughbreds, harness and quarter horses.

Milestones At Meadows

Installation of the new Longden Course turf track as a supplement to the dirt track is the latest in a series of milestones at Bay Meadows.

The track opened in 1934, the year after its late founder, William Patrick "Bill" Kyne and his associates, Joe Cohen and William Hornblower, also deceased, had been instrumental in ushering a bill through the California legislature making pari-mutuel wagering legal in the state.

With nearly 200 days of racing each year, Bay Meadows is one of the busiest tracks in the West. The course presents thoroughbred racing in the fall, trotters and pacers in winter, quarter horses in the spring and the racing meet of San Mateo County Fair each summer.

Bay Meadows was the first major California track to offer quarter horse and harness racing and initiated the night racing program. The daily double was introduced at the local track, too.

Some names from the past:

Seabiscuit was twice winner of the Bay Meadows

Handicap, and Citation ran here during the comeback that was to make him racing's first $1 million winner. There was Native Diver, first of the California-breds to earn more than $1 million in purses — Noor, Determine, Majestic Prince.

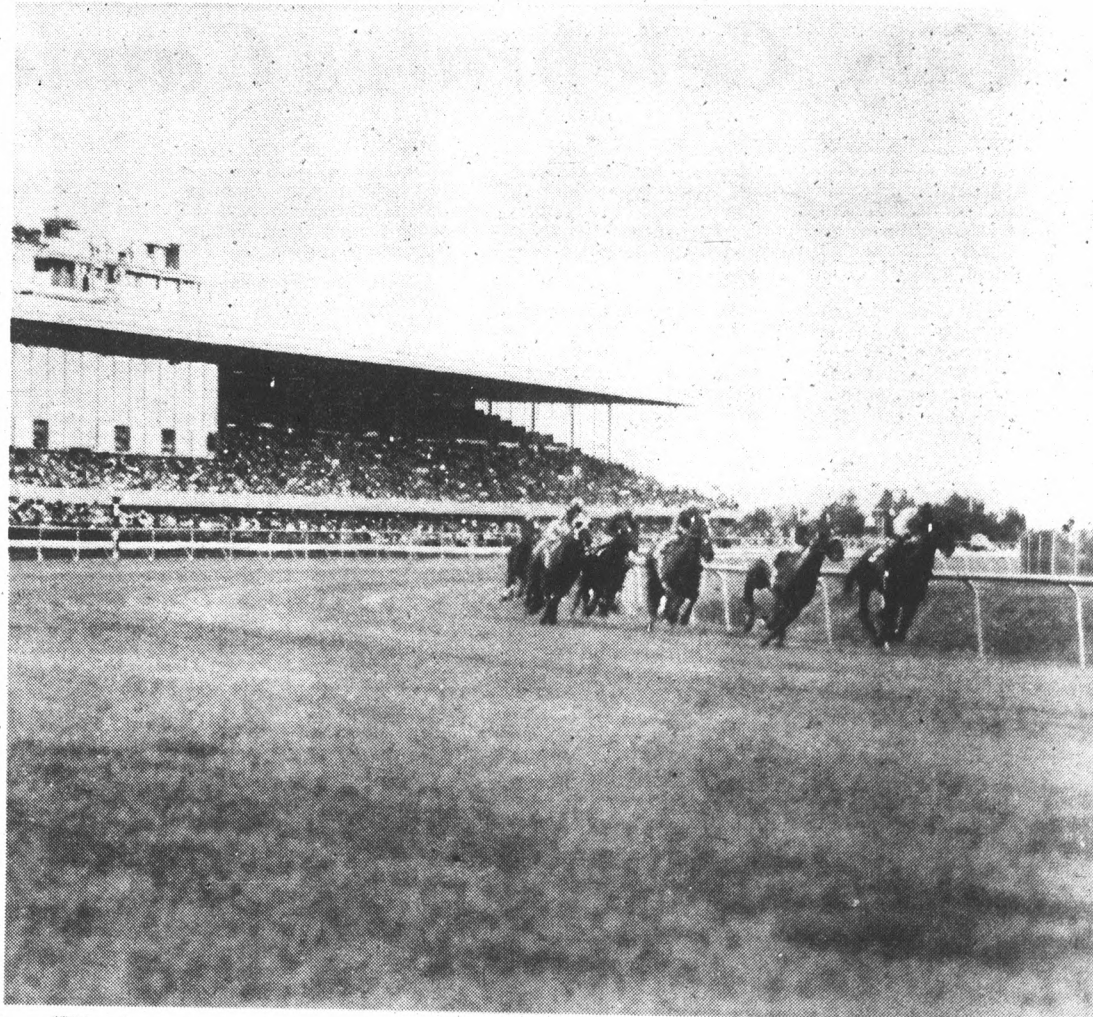

And the riders and trainers' names conjure up memories:

Of course, Johnny Longden, a trainer after retiring as "the world's winningest rider" and for whom the new grass track is named.

Bill Shoemaker, Ralph Neves, Johnny Adams, Steve Brooks, Ismael Valenzuela

ACRES OF GRASS

Looking across the infield to Bay Meadows grandstand (right), this view shows the sweep of Meadows Green, where there's room for a 9-hole golf course in addition to a picnic area with a vantage point at the race finish line. And this year more grass was added, with the installation of the Longden turf track, shown in use (below) for the first time on Labor Day's season opener.

Track Honors Jockey

The John Longden Turf Course, introduced on Labor Day as the 1978 fall thoroughbred season opened at Bay Meadows, has been added infield of the existing one-mile dirt (loam and Antioch sand) oval. Carpeted with a mixture of Bluegrass and Manhattan Perennial Rye, the Longden track is 7 furlongs and 32 feet long.

A member of the Turf Sports' Hall of Fame, Longden retired as a jockey in 1966 after a 40-year career, holding the then-world record of 6,032 winners. He was the 1943 winner of racing's triple crown astride Count Fleet.

Longden was among the jockeys at Bay Meadows' opening season in 1934 and rode here regularly until his retirement. Then he returned as a trainer and at 71 remains an active participant in the sport.

Race Season's Purses To Reach $740,000

The thoroughbred season at Bay Meadows, the California Jockey Club's part of the proceedings, looks to a record year of purses in the 59 days of racing this fall.

A total of $740,000 in added monies will be presented. And for the first time, that includes two "hundred granders," the El Camino Real Stakes with $100,000 added on Nov. 18 to climax "El Camino Real Week" in San Mateo and the Bay Meadows Handicap for similar monies

Dec. 9 (the latter up this year from its former $75,000 added status).

The El Camino Real Stakes represents the third leg of the Western triple crown for two-year-olds. It is preceded by the Del Mar Futurity and the Norfolk Stakes at Santa Anita's Oak Tree meeting.

So far, the only triple winner is Telly's Pop, the horse that took all three events in 1975.

This year will mark the first running of the Bay Meadows Handicap, which has been going for 46 years, on the new grass track. It's scheduled for a mile and an eighth over the turf course.

Eleven of the 19 scheduled stakes during the Jockey Club season will take place on the Longden turf course. They include the Bay Meadows Derby Nov. 25 and the California Jockey Club Handicap, both $50,000 added events.

A PAIR OF WINNERS

Tampoy, with F. Toro aboard, leads the field at the finish line of the 1977 El Camino Real Stakes for two-year-olds (above). Among the Camino Stakes' best known competitors is Telly's Pop (below), shown with the Jockey Club trophy he earned by winning the Western Triple Crown of racing. The year was 1975, and Telly's Pop was victorious at Del Mar and Santa Anita before clinching the championship at Bay Meadows.

Early Action Backstage

You've got to get up early to go backstage at Bay Meadows, but the track's Saturday morning open house programs are proving popular despite the 8 a.m. post time.

Each Saturday, through Dec. 2, Bay Meadows is inviting the public to drop in to watch morning workouts. And along with the view of training track activities, visitors can meet jockeys and trainers, tour the barn area and view racing films.

There's no charge for the spectator part of the program, but those who want to stoke up on a bacon-and-egg breakfast in the Club House Dining Room pay $2.50 for the meal. Breakfast is available during open house hours, 8 to 10:30 a.m., and tables afford a good view of the track activity.

Children are welcome, but should be accompanied by adults.

Lots of Space for Fans

There are seats for 11,000 fans at Bay Meadows Race Track, but since fans mostly stand, the attendance capacity is practically unlimited.

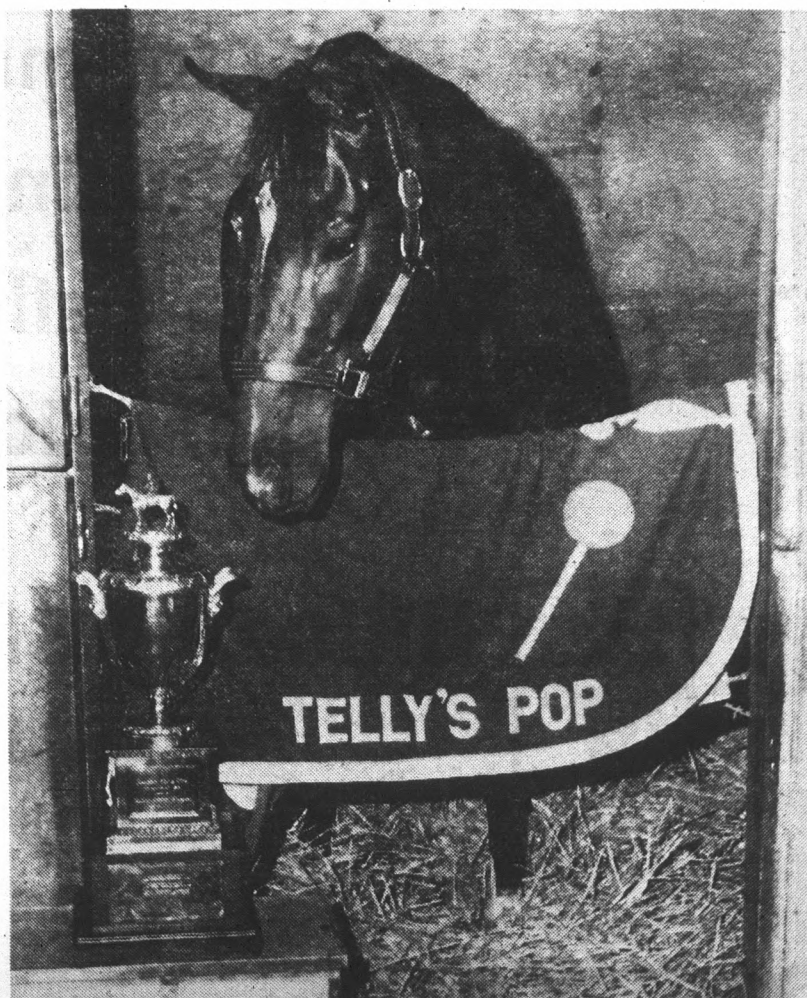

Vastly adding to the available space is the opening of the Meadows Green infield area, which is especially suited to family picnics.

There are picnic tents and tables, betting windows, closed circuit television and refreshment stands for race fans who prefer the open air informality of the Green.

Under cover, the grandstand has seats for 8,500. There's space for another

2,500 in the Clubhouse and Turf Club.

There are four restaurants, plus assorted snack bars, cocktail lounges, gift shops and closed circuit television of the track action to many of the indoor public areas.
